prise was felt yesterday after what appeared to be the final determination at the department and the white house yesterday that Louis Pleasants's name as Wade's successor did not go in with Johnson's the approval of the administration.

Conkling's nomination yesterday created general surprise. There is a prevailing opinion that he will not remain long on the bench, and his friends well understand that he is ready at any time to enter politics under sufficient inducement. Others supose that Arthur desires to put him out of the way as a stalwart candidate for the presidency, and that this is a part of the president's scheme to get the Stretched out for the nomination.

The bubbly sensation of a Blaine-Brown ticket continues now and then to froth out in some newspapers anxious for novelty. The Georgia senator's sensible letter on the situation does not seem to have caught up with the original, baseless rumor. Now it has gotten into the 'patent outsides' and will be scattered to the four corners of the carth. Among the fundred or so correspondents in Washington exists a sharp rivalry in the effort to first find what is going to happen. Enterprise often overleaps the bounds, not only of truth but of probability. The public is frequently treated to intensely original prognostications.

The trial of Sergent Mason, who fired at Guiteau in his cell, is progressing with considerable interest. On the court martial are Captain Weir and Lieutenant Reilly, of the Fifth artitlery, who were stationed in Atlanta and are well known there. The ball fired by Mason, flattened against the wall in a shape somewhat like the assassin's profile. The enterprising warden of the jail has made a "spec" on this accident. He has had thousands of fac similes cast and is selling them for ten cents each. Guiteau says that the bullet passed so close to his head that it caught his likeness. The misemble creature still preserves the ghastly humor that used to bring a laugh from the crowd at the court-house, though it was ready to tear him to pieces.

in Georgia has gone to the senate and is in the hands of the judiciary committee. It is away down on the calendar, but an effort will be made by our senators to bring it up sooner than in the regular senators to bring it up sooner than it the reservoir course it would come.

I hear that Judge Erskine will move to Savannah and have the southern district, and that Atlanta will have the new judge. Judge McCay is already prominently mentioned for the bench, and Judge Hopkins has been spoken of.

THE HOUSE.

Washington, February 25. -Mr. Reed, from the committee on rules, reported a resolution for the appointment of a select committee of nine, to which shall be referred all petitions, bills and resolutions asking for extension of the suffrage to women and the removal of their legal disabilities.

Mr. Houk raised the point of order that under the rules the resolution must lie over one day.

The speaker overruled the point of order and the resolution was adopted 115 to 85, almost a party vote.

The Force of Gravity at Washington Washington, February 25.—Major S. Herschel, R. E., son of Sir John Herschel, and grandson of the famous astronomer, Sir William Herschel, is in Washington. He visits this country at the request of the superintendent of the United States coast and Geodetic survey, for the purpose of taking part in certain delicate pendulum observations for determing the exact force of gravity at Washington, bringing with him for that purpose the pendulums which have been already used in the same service both in England and India. Professor S. F. Baird has offered the necessary facilities for these experiments, which will be conducted by Major Herschel and Professor C. S. was any appearance at all, to be averse to its acceptance.

CLEVELAND, February 25.—The papers of this city publish bitter articles assailing the nomination of Conkling to the supreme bench. The Herald says that President Arthur did an act that was a surprise and mortification to those epublicans who had placed confidence in his good sense and who had refused to believe that, in his official course, he would defer to the dietates of an arrogant and discredited clique. Rather than conform to the wishes of the great mass of republicans and regard the true interests of the party and the nation, he nominated Roscoe Conkling to the supreme bench of the United States. Conklingism is triumphant. Garfield republicanism is humiliated. That is the only construction it will bear. There is no possible excuse for this.

members. It is said that over one hundred left the bosoms of their families with the avowed intention of going to the night session, but failed to "make connection."

The prospect of losing Judge Edmunds from the senate ought to alarm the republicans, if it does not. Without him their strength in that body would be minus a leader of any great capacity.

A year ago they had Blaine, Conkling and Edmunds, and they cannot afford to lose the lact of the great trio. Edmunds is undoubtedly urged for the supreme court, and Arthur wants to put him there. He had a chance to don the gown under Hayes but refused it, and many of his friends think he will decline the profered honor now.

He loves the senate. He is the admitted leader of his side, and the most influential man in that high council. He is just 54, with improving health and a steady backing for the presidency in the best elements of his party. His law practice is as big as he cares to make it. An active political life offers too many attractions to allow him to be shelved in the solemn honors of the great bench. His law practice is as big as he cares to make it. An active political life offers too many attractions to allow him to be shelved in the solemn bonors of the great bench. They say he is "considering" the question.

Nobody seems to beheve the rumor that Conk. Hing is to go into the court. Of all ment if would be least suited to his combative, nervous nature. He is said to aspire to weath, and his practice in New York will make him rich in a few years.

The sudden disappearance of such a notable figure from the political arena has occasioned a variety of suppositions as to his future career. Constantly since the disgraceful defeat at Albany he has proclaimed his purpose to have done with political to said the work of the wall carry out this intention. He gloried in each of the wall carry out this intention. He gloried in said the wall to say so now. But nobody can believe that be will carry out this intention. district attorney and the attorney general were not members of the senate, or the chief political powers of the administration of that time, and perhaps Jayne and his companions knew what they needed, and got it where it was to be had.

After Chief Justice Chare died President Grant had a disastrous time trying to get a successor to him. The present incumbent's name was the third that he sent to the senate, and the senate was full of his friends, who would much rather have confirmed than rejected a nomination by him. Besides Williams, Cushing and Waite, the president offered the place to Roscoe Conkling. The salary of the chief justice has been increased during Mr. Conkling's term in the senate, on account of which free the was ineligible, and declined a position to which he could not have been confirmed. His ineligibility was not generally understood, and it was supposed by most persons that he declined because he preferred to remain in the senate. A New York lawyer was asked one day why he supposed Mr. Conklin declined an appointment to the supreme court. He replied: "I suppose for the same reason that I would not accept the mission to China; I do not understand the Chinese language." Possibly Mr. Conkling has been devoting his time latterly to the acquisition of the language of the supreme court.

QUARRELLING OVER THE SPOILS.

The Virginia Legislature Still Engaged in Filling Office.

RICHMOND, February 25.—The general assembly o-day elected five judges of the supreme court. The democrats nominated and voted for their candidate in each, except in the case of Mr. Hinton, didate in each, except in the case of Mr. Hinton, who was elected to succeed Judge E. C. Burks. The democrats claimed that the term of service of Judge Burks would not expire on the first of January next, as did the terms of the other four judges, and that he had nearly six years yet to serve. They therefore refrained from voting, and a considerable amount of skirmishing around for absentees had to be done before a quorum of each house could be obtained.

In the senate the democratic members submitted a protest against the election of a successor to Judge Burks, because they did not consider the time had arrived for so doing, and they were sustained in this belief by the supreme court itself. They asked to have the protest soread upon the journal, but it was ruled out of order by the president pro tem, and an appeal from his ruling was taken, which was discussed until the adjournment without action.

Benjamin Franklin's Papers.

Washington, February 25.—The joint committee on the library held a meeting to-day to consider the advisability of recommending the purchase of what is kown as the Stevens callection of manuscripts and printed books written by or in some way relating to Benjamin Franklin, which are offered to the government for $35,000 by their London owners. They comprise all the papers bequeathed by Dr. Franklin to his grandson, Wm. Temple Franklin, and include some 2,400 documents, specially selected by Franklin for presentation after his retirement from public affairs, which have never been printed. The committee will probably report favorably on the offer. Benjamin Franklin's Papers.

Mexico, February 25.—The Diaros, the official government organ, giving an account of the sinister reports published in northern papers, regarding Mexican enterprises, expresses confidence in the railway future, and says that the excursion of the cabinet ministers over the section of the National railway produces confidence in American enterprise in Mexico.

The Misaisalppi Leves.

Skipwith, Miss., February 25.—W. T. Anderson who has been working for the last few days repairing the worst places in the levee, reports, "We can stand all the water coming. The reports of high water and the condition of the levees in this part of the Mississippi bottom are partly unfounded. Ben Lomand levee, so often reported broken, is still intact."

Mysteriously worded paragraphs have appeared in eastern democratic organs which in times past have enjoyed confidential relations with the sly hero of Cipher Alley, secret conferences have been held be tween the high and mighty potentates of the demous other "straws" which keen-witted politicians have construed as indicating an agitation of the zenhyrs in this direction. But Uncle Samuel has always contrived to envelop his schemes in such impenetrable secrecy that nothing has as yet been presented to the public to confirm the suspicion entertained by many politicians of both partiesthat Tilden has thus early begun to pull the wires for a second presidential race. The first evidence of the fact that he has already entered upon the campaign in dead earnest has just been acc dentally discovered by the Tribune correspondent, who has learned that a few days ago ex-Governor John M. Palmer, of this city, received a confidential communication from Mr. Tilden, upon the subject of the presidency, in which he announces his determination to enter the next race for the presidency, and proposed to effect an alliance offensive and defensive, with Governor Palmer, with the understanding that the latter should accept the econd place on the ticket. In this communication Mr. Tilden outlined his own plans for the campaign, and stated that, after long and careful consultation with his most intimate personal and political friends, he and they had reached the conclusion that Governor Palmer was the strongest man that could be found as a candidate for vice-president, and that, if Tilden and Palmer expect to defeat any candidate the republicans with extraordinary prudences hardy fund of resources, to be used according to circumstances. And this is all that his alleged slowness amounts to."

Do you mean to say that Arthur is fully convinced there is going to be a break-up, and that the next president will be elected on other than an old-fashioned party struggle?

"Not convinced party struggle?

"Not convinced yet; neverthelesss he probably considers a break-up possible, and means to have something handsome in hand. You see, besides his cabinet offices, there are some of the best foreign appointments at his disposal, without doing anything violent. A considerable proportion of the local offices are corresponingly held in abeyance. In the south, where the change or break-up is actually, in one sense, in progress, the machinery moves quite freely, and appointments are making on the plan of a break-up—at least so as to promote it every way possible."

Still, I ask. Does Arthur desire to see a break-up, except in the zouth, where the republicans are buried, and any change would be advantageous?

"Probably Arthur would not do anything to produce the disruption of the republican organization in the north. Blaine—and say what you will, he has a powerful following when it comes to practical work—does, and he is doing, his utmost to bring about the disorganization, the demoralization rather, of parties everywhere. It is no trifling matter. Blaine's wish is to thrust in new issues, raise new questions, and create confusion, in the belief that he will be able to gather to himself most of the fragments. Others besides Arthur think there is too much tendency to disregard it; any way, like an astute player, Arthur does not intend to be without something in his hands should there be an occasion for taking tricks."

There is a natural indisposition to believe that a fusion of Blaine and bourbon democrats is more than a ridiculous piece of imagination. What are the facts about it?

"Not all imagination. You know it is a saying that nothing is so certain as the unexpecte could place in the field against them. One point upon which Mr. Tilden especially relied for the success of the proposed combination was Governor Palmer's popularity among the colored people, of whom he has always been a zealous and devoted champion, and in the plan of operations mapped out by Mr. Tilden tovernor Palmer is expected to make heavy inroads upon the colored republican vote. The fact that Illinois could have been gained for Tilden in 1876 by good management and the expenditure of less money have been gained for Tilden in 1876 by good management and the expenditure of less money than was wasted in other states had the managers been apprised of the true state of affairs was urged as another reason for believing that Tilden might hope, with the aid of Palmer, who has still many warm admirers among his old republican associates and the soldier element, to carry the prairie state for the democracy in 1884.

the management and the expenditure of less money than was wasted in other states had the managers been apprised of the true state of affairs that Tilden might hope, with the aid of Palmer, that Tilden might hope, with the aid of Palmer, the problem of the true state of affairs that Tilden might hope, with the aid of Palmer, the problem of the true state of the state of the comment of the true correspondent is unable to give more than the substance of this highly-interesting communiquation, having learned of its existence of the problem of t except the contest going on at Washington for the leadership. This communication being a confidential one, and neither party being willing to have the facts it contains known so long before the next presidential campaign opens, Governor Palmer's slience of course, was not at all unexpected, and can be readily understood. Even had he been willing to express his views concerning the matter, he could not honorably betray Mr. Tilden's confidence, and naturally adopted the only course 4eft—absolute slience. What his answer has been or will be, the writer has been unable to learn, and can only conjecture. Governor Palmer was in the field in 1850 as a full-fledged presidential aspirant, and undoubtedly has not given up his hopes of eventually securing at least a place on the democratic ticket, with the contingency of a possible election in prospect. But as the "Palmer boom" did not boom to any alarming extent in the last campaign, he being an eminently sensible man, will doubtless consider an alliance with so strong a candidate and successful apolitician as Tilden more desirable than a contest against him for the first place, and it is reasonably safe to assume that the combination proposed by Mr. Tilden has been or will be accepted. In looking over the ground car-fully its difficult to see how the democratic could place a stronger ticket in the field than Tilden and Palmer. The most serious obstacle in the way of their nomination is the fact that Illinois is beyond question a republican state, which neither Governor Palmer nor any other man can carry for the democracy, and that the party leaders may desire to pursue their past policy of selecting candidates whom they hope will carry doubtful states.

Governor Palmer is stronger with the masses of his party than with its leaders, and his nomination would undoubtedly be vigo-ously opposed by the adherent of all the other possible and wouldbe democratic presidential aspirants; but when his record and elements of availability and popularity are carefully considered, the Springfield, III., February 25.—Ex-Governor John M. Palmer was interviewed to-day, in reference to the report that he had received a proposition from Tilden to become a candidate for the second place on the ticket with him for the democratic presidential nomination in 1884. Answering the questions, the ex-governor said: "There is nothing of it. The report is purely sensational."

John Kelley's Trip South Not Unconnected with the Tilden Campaign of 1884. NEW YORK, February 22—(Special Dispatch to Cincinnati Gazette.)—It turns out, as heretofore intimated, that John Kelly's visit to Florida and the south has been prompted by other motives than simply a desire to benefit his health. It appears that he has been doing a good stock of political business down there with a special eye to the contingencies of the presidential campaign. Sometime ago it leaked out that the pertinacious friends of Mr. Tilden here had been quietly circulating through southern democratic journals articles in favor of taking him up again as the democratic standard-bearer for 1884, and these, it would appear, are supported with numerous private letters from a good source addressed to prominent democrats in the Carolinas, Florida, etc., as if to feel the pulse of public opinion.

of Gramercy Park is again playing his cards for the presidency, and no sooner was the former cognizant of what was in the wind, therefore, than he concluded that another "still hunt" was on the tapis, and that there was not a moment to be lost in counteracting it. Mr. Kelly laid his plans accordingly, and if what we now hear about him be true, Mr. Tilden will discover ere long that the editorial articles and the private letters above alluded to have been deprived of their intended effect by the tireless energy of his implacable and ever wide awake antagonist.

To the ordinary mind it would seem that it is rather early as yet to be thus intriguing for the next presidency, but the politicians of the school of Mr. John Kelly and Mr. Samuel J. Tilden know no such thing as repose. They watch each other as a cat watches a mouse, and when one comes out of his corner the other is sure to make a spring at him. It is doubtful, even, if either sleeps o' nights. THE TRIAL OF THE RUSSIAN STATE PRISONERS.

It appears that Trizoni had only a very slight connection with the proceedings of the nihilists, being merely aware of their designs. Sucharoff, during his examination, drew such a vivid picture of the abnormal social conditions of the country that had driven him, an honorable, sensative man, to a career of crime, that even the judges were deeply affected. Jakimova acknowledged the truth of the charges brought against her. Jenerka, who is uneducated, admitted being a terrorist, but was unable to define the aims of that party. Merkreloff continued his endeavors to incriminate his associates. GREAT BRITAIN.

London, February 25.—In the house of lord last evening, Lord salisbury stated that the objects of the committee appointed to inquire into the working of the land act had been misrepresented. He said it would neither try the land commissioners nor seek to repeal the land act. Any change must be made in the direction of redressing the wrongs of the landlords rather than diminishing anything which the tenants may have acquired by the act.

The Daily News points to the significance of certain remarks of the marquis of Lansdown, who was the mover of the land act. He pointed out that a commission formed mainly of landlords was not likely to be regarded as a very impartial tribunal to investigate the working of an act devised in the interest of the tenant.

The Times says the house of lords committee cannot possibly arrive at any useful conclusion. It is already hopelessly discredited by the fact that it does not represent the house of lords but only a section of it.

The house of commons went into committee of supply at 6 o'clock last evening, when the Irish members seized the opportunity to attack Mr. Forster's administration of the coercian act, on the dicussion of the vote for the Irish constabular, which was ultimately carried by a vote of 183 to 18. The sitting was prolonged until 3.20 this morning.

Why the Stock Fluctuated So Wildly the Other Day New York Letter in Cincinnati Enquirer. The tumble in Richmond and Danville came in

"A customer of mine," said one broker, "had $72,000 profit on the quotations at the opening this morning, and made virtually out of nothing."

"Why did he not take it?" was asked.
"Take—!" was the response; "you could buy plenty, but the laundry wouldn't wash while you could sell a hundred shares."

People who were supposed to understand the mysterious movements in the stock were reticent about it. One member of a firm credited with having a deal in the pool, said: "We refused to turn a thousand-shares at par when the stock was selling at 150, although we were offered 1 per cent commission and interest for 60 days, with 20 per cent margin, to be kent good!"

His partner said: "This stuff was listed late last year. We refused to advance 50 on it. Nobody would go long or short of it, and it has been gradually worked up to the price of a few hours ago with the insane idea that some one would take a 'spiled p'int' on it. Evidently somebody habit, and loses $10,000 on every hundred shares. Before it was listed on the stock exchange they swapped it around in Richmond, Va., in the neighborhood of the eighthes."

around in Richmond, Va., in the neighborhood of the eighthies."

"There is a curious history about this stock," said another banker, who is supposed to know about it. "It was listed on the stock exchange a few-months ago at par. It advaaced without any material setback to 250. At this time it sold as a privilege to subscribe to debenture bonds at forty-five cents on the dollar to the extent of the amount of the stock issued, which was about $4.000,000. The entire issue of the debenture bonds was subscribed for by the stockholders. Since then, strange as it may appear to holders of mortgages on sunflower farms, money-lenders have declined to take the stock as collateral. This has prevented the people who have been identified with the rise from buying more."
"But why should there have been so tremendous a decline?"

"But why should there have been so tremendous a decline?"

"Well, principally because insiders, being able to take care of their own 'sheers.' were not willing to back the extravagant bids of enthusiastic outsiders. The pool consists of more than half the stock, and is tied up for ten years. The extreme fluctuations were from 219 to 130, then back to 165, closing at 165 to 180. Nice chance for alittle turn, eth?"

"Damn the stuff," said another banker, "nobody will sell it short, and no broker will buy it without 200 per cent margin. A week ago, when the stock was selling way up in the air, the pool was sending put and call brokers around to buy calls on the stock on any part of one thousand shares. If any fool had sold the calls, they could have marked the stocks up to the extent of his purse.

We have just learned that a death-bed confession has brought out the perpetrators. Dr. James N. Brandon, of Caneyville, on his death-bed confessed that he and John Whitting-hill and Bill Taylor Whittinghill, sens of Remus Whittingshill, did the deed. Brandon said they took a syringe and three chloroform through the key-holes into the different rooms, and waited till it caused a deep sleep. They then went in and rebbed the house, getting $1,600 in money. They then set the house on fire in several places and ran off. Mrs. Embry and three children escaped from the fire, and Embry and six children, including three sons almost grown, perished in the flames. The parties have been suspected for some time. Bill Taylor Whittinghill's wife took a hundred dollar bill to Moorman's store to get it changed, and as Whittinghill. We understand Brandon is dead, and that the Whittinghill's have fled. This is the information as received. It may not be exactly correct as to details, but the substance is. A number of Dr. Brandon's friends deny that he made any such confession.

At a recent meeting of the Philadelphia school board it was stated, as a proof of the stupicity of the school system in that city, that it took twenty minutes to read over the course of instruction authorized in primary schools for pupils in their first four months. first four months.

There is a movement in the Kentucky legislature for the equalization of the distribution of the school fund between the white and colored people of the state. A discrimination is now made against the colored people on the ground that they pay taxes on only $3,500,000 worth of property.

The demand for the teaching of morals and manners in the public schools is now heard from one end of the country to the other. When Burnside saw his bill advocating such teaching received with derision it would have been hard for him to believe that so short a time afterward the commonsense of the country would assert the wisdom of his proposal. proposal.

The Rev. Dr. Gladden thinks that pupils should learn such things as will tend to make them happy in whatever calling they may choose. He suggests that all possible ways should be devised in school to awaken the minds of the pupils and stimulate a thirst for knowledge; and he suggests that boys should be made to see that farm life is far from lonely or uninteresting. They should be taught natural history and mineralogy.

REVENUE RAIDERS

PRICE 5 CENTS

A Lively Time in the Mountain District.

About to-morrow we may look out for som Yesterday the revenue office here received a let ter from Deputy Collector Shepard giving the details of an attempt which he made on the 22nd to seize a distillery in Rabun county belonging to a man named H. P. Pendigrass.

Shepard, accompanied by one man, had made his way into the heart of the hills and in a deep ravine came upon a large distillery. Suddenly he espied three men in ambush, who, seeing that they were discovered, came out and demanded the name of the person who had given information as to the whereabouts of the sill. They were armed to the teeth, but the name of the informer was not given them. They then pointed to the distillery and defied the raiders to seize it. Acting upon the idea that discretion is the better part of valor, Collector Shepard retired from the Eeld and returned to Toccoa, from which point he telegraphed for men and arms. Arms were sent him and he collected six men, and is now on his way to the distillery. The seven taen, armed heavily, will make things lively for the moonshiners when they meet them.

A DESPERATE CHARACTER

Receives His Deserts at the Hands of an Infuriated Mob. SAN FRANCISCO, February 25.—[Special.]—A dispatch from Mineral Park, Arizona, says: At Hack-berry, thirty miles from this town, J. O. Weldon, a berry, thirty miles from this town, J. O. Weldon, a deperate character, on the 20th shot and killed a peaceable citizen by the name of John Bellock without provocation. The citizens rushed to the scene and opened fire on Weldon, which he returned, slightly wounding the Indian agent, Charles Spencer. Weldon was shot through the breast, and after his pistol was emptied surrendered. He was held in custody till the night of the 21st, when a party of fifteen men took him out and hung him to a beam of a blacksmith shop. Weldon declared publicly a short time ago that he was glad Guiteau had killed Garfield.

Suit for Divorce by Rose Eytinge

New York, February 25.—Action for disorce on the grounds of adultery was commenced to-day, in the supreme court by Rose E. Butler, otherwise Rose Eytinge, the actress, against her husband, George H. Butler, nephew of General Butler. The defence put the charges.

MILWAUKEE, February 25.—Rose Eytinge was in-terviewed here to-night, and refused to say any-thing about her divorce case. It is understood in theatrical circles here that she has a long list of charges of immorality against her husband, Mr. Butler.

A Son's Horrible Confession.

Worcester, Mass., February 25.—Solomon Richardson, of Charlton, a well-to-do farmer, was reported last Wednesday as having been fatally wounded by the accidental discharge of a gun while he was riding on a load of logs with his son and a neighbor named Allen. He died and was buried. To-day the son confessed that he had shot his father, intending to kill him, and is now under arrest on a charge of murder. He says that he had carried the gun for two days, awaiting a favorable opportunity to shoot his father, and fired while Allen's back was turned.

CINCINNATI, February 25.—The Gazette's Loxington, Ky., special says that Deputy Marshal Hefin visited George Ellis in jail to-day in company with the jailer, and asked him about the publication in the Cincinnati Enquirer of to-day of his retraction of his confession and the testimony upon which Craft and Neal were convicted of the Gibbons femily murder at Ashland, Ky. Heffin publishes a card in an evening paper, saying that Ellis vehemently denied having made any such retraction, and reiterated the truth of his confession and testimony.

What the Papers Say.

A SHARK. Correspondence Albany News and Advertiser. On our way down we met a strong flood tide with a stiff wird against. Our boat galloped over the rolling waters so that something to hold on to was pleasant. Heading across the bay to St. Simon's light, the man in charge of the wheel hailed Mr. Tift and directed his attention to something ahead of so large as to be a matter of wonder to the sailors aboard. The boat happened to be provided with a shark line—a manilla cord about a half inch thick with with a stark line. The object turned out to be a shark's fir ut a half inch thick, with a large hool tied to a trace chain. A small piece of beef was quickly put on the hook, a float put on the line, and then cast out, and then the line made fast to then cast out, and then the line made fast to the capstan. As we neared the fish the fin disappeared, and all eagerly watched the float. Suddenly the line tightens, the float disap-peared, and the headway of the boat was checked, and the man at the capstan yelled out, "he's hooked!" I have been fishing, but I never saw the like of that. The fellow rose to the surface of the wave and looked at us. to the surface of the wave and looked at us. He had about seventy-five yards of line out by this time. and actually, in a second he made a rush and jumped clear over the bow of the steamer. The ladies then got under shelter, and all hands helyed to hold that line. The fellow, when he failed to eat us up, made for the ocean, and fairly made the waters foam.

IMPROVED LENSES FOR TELESCOPES. Washington correspondence Augusta Chronicle A Georgian of scientific attainments, resid-ng at Darien, has discovered that lenses for

The mag-nitude can be greatly increased by the new-method, and, consequently, there is no telling what wonderful astronomical results may flow from its adoption. The main difficulty is in securing a favorable opinion at headquar-ters here. I have called the Hon George R. Black's attention to it and he has promised Black's attention to it, and he has promised to see Professor Baird and urge him to make or have made competent investigation. My Darien correspondent is unfortunately not situated for pushing his discovery, and I can only aid him with my pen and tongue. BIG TURPENTINE FARM IN PULASKI COUNTY. Hawkinsville Dispatch. W. Ira Brown, ex-judge of the county court of Dooly and a late member of the Vi enna bar, has turned his attention from law to the distillation of turpentine. He has become associated or interested with his brother, Mr. Loam Brown, and Mr. Ham, in brother, Mr. Loam Brown, and Mr. Ham, in a large turpentine farm eight miles below Hawkinsville, on the west side of the Ocmulgee. He informed us last Monday that they had already boxed the pines on eight hundred acres, and expected to increase the farm to sixteen hundred acres. This is the first turpentine farm established on this side of the river in Pulaski county. If they do not secure river transportation for their turpentine, they will, be compelled to ship by railroad, the nearest point being Hawkinsville, to which point they will haul the turpentine by wagon. Loam Brown seldom goes into any enterprise without seeing money in it, and his success in this new business will no doubt put a number of others at work along the river. The turpentine business seems to flourish along the railroads, and it along the river. The turpentine business seems to flourish along the railroads, and it is highly probable that many farms will soon be started adjacent to the water courses.

call it the "Gift of Healing"—yet few have possessed it to such an extent over nearly all diseases and persons. It is life and vitality passed from a strong and healthy body to a weak one, that restores the loss or unequal circulation of the vital or nervous fluids. So powerful is this influence, that persons who have for years suffered from diseases which have been pronounced incurable, and to whom medicine has been administered with no good effect, have been restored to health in an incredible short space of time. It will not restore a lost member of the body or perform other impossisibilities, but it will always relieve pain, from whatever cause.

The practice is based upon the strictest principles. DR. EVANS'S PRACTICE

The practice is based upon the strictest principles of science; there is nothing miraculous or supernatural about it; it is in harmony with all natural

Many eminent physicians not only acknowledge this power, but receive the treatment for themselves and families, as well as advise it to their patients. By this method it requires but a few treatments for inversate cases of almost any curable chronic disease, and so sure is its effect that in no case is the treatment protracted, except paralysis of long standing, suppurating tumors, bad curvatures of the spine, etc. Even these are much benefitted, always relieved from pain, and in the majority of instances cured.

CURES BY MAGNETISM—THE REMARKABLE SCENES TO BE WITNESSED AT THE GRAND CENTRAL HALL—DR. JUNSON EVANS—THE GREATEST MAGNETIC PHYSICAN OF THE AGE.

An advertisment having appeared in several of the daily papers, stating that the famous Dr. Judson Evans would heal the sick at Grand Central hall, corner Broadway and Forty-seventh street, a Mercury reporter was sent to witness his treatment, which is well known in New York to scientific men to be of an extraordinarily successful character. The reporter not only saw many wonderful cures, but also had an interesting interview with the doctor afterwards at his private parlors, 20 West Twenty-fourth street. There were at the morning clinic—if we may so term it—over five hundred persons.

Evans's treatment is entirely magnetic, and to ordinary observers incomprehensible, but the results are of a character which cannot be questioned.

Evan's treatment is entirely magnetic, and to ordinary observers incomprehensible, but the results are of a character which cannot be questioned, "for facts are stubborn things." The first patient that was treated after the reporter's arrival was an old gentteman who had suffered from rheumatism for nine years, and whose stiffened joints caused him to hobble painfully to the place where the treatment was to be given. Dr. Evans made a few passes over the limbs and body of the patient, and almost as if by magic the patin and stiffness seemed to vanish. The patient said he felt like a new creature, and walked away at a brisk gait, fully satisfied of his perfect recovery. Then a person suffering from paralysis of the nerve of the ear, causing total deafness, which had lasted for three years, was made to hear quite distinctly after a few minute's treatment. The next patient was a lady, who said she had suffered intolerably from neuralgia of the face and head for more than five years, was almost instantly relieved, and went away like one in a dream. Many other cases followed, which the reporter has not now the space sold, "the lame were made to walk, the desf to hand the blind to see." The cures, as is proved the records of numbers of well-authenticated coccurring at different times and in different plangen on the merely temporary, but permanent. Evans devotes his attention mainly to diseases Evans devotes his attention mainly to diseases of a chronic nature, and such as have been given up as incurable. Dr. Evans is a graduate of two medical colleges, and previous to the development of his wonderful magnetic power, was an allopathic practitioner of high repute at the south. The newspapers of that section are full of the praises of this

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

This ailment has been hitherto considered incurable, and the treatment usually prescribed has been empirical and unsatisfactory. In fact, Iron, Phosphorous, and their various compounds which are generally administered, always appears to aggravate every evil symptom, by producing congestion and irritation. Patients soon after taking these preparations have found themselves worse. And yet when properly treated, it is certainly curable.

We are daily curing a class of cases by our Scientific Magnetic treatments and life giving remedies which have been regarded as hopelessly incurable.

TESTIMONIALS & REFERENCES.

FEMALE DISEASES.—I had suffered beyond description from female diseases—prolapsus, misplacement, ulceration, etc., etc.—for seven years: had been under the best medical and surgical treatment to be procured in the city, not only private, but at the best hospitals, for months at a time, without any appreciable relief to my suffering, and in fact all treatment appeared to make me worse instead of better. As a last hope I applied to Dr. Evans, who effected a complete and permanent cure by four magnetic treatments. It has now been almost one year since he treated me, and I have not felt the slightest symptom of my former trouble.

MRS GICHRIST, 530 West 5th Street.

NEURALGIA, RHEUMATISM, ETC.—Mrs. L. Conger, residence, 407 Ninth avenue, occupation, a nurse, had for years been severely affleted with rheumatism, neuralgia and an affection of the kidneys and bladder. of the most distressing character. She had been treated and prescribed for by the best physi-fians until she had despaired of recovery. Dr. Evans cured her by a few magnetic treatments seven months since. She is still perfectly free from her diseases.

RHEUMATISM, ERYSIPELAS AND ULCERS.—
Mrs. Dolon, residence, 262 West 43d street, was confined to her room with rheumatism, erysipelas and chronic ulcers on the limb. Dr Evans cured her in two weeks. Also her daughter, of a severe case of Bright's disease of the kidneys, from which she had suffered for three years. The above cures were of the most remarkable character, and should be investigated by those similarly afficted.

SKIN DISEASE.—Mr. Nicholas Garlade, 191 South Third Street, Brooklyn, had suffered for years from a most unsightly and annoying skin disease—the effects of a vaccination when young—covering almost his entire body. All treatment proved useless, not even mitigating it in the least, until he applied to Dr. Evans, who effected a cure in a f-w weeks.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS.—The child of Mr. Fitzsinmen's .767 South Front Street, was cured of complete Paralysis of the limb by two Magnetis treatments. May be referred to.

has signed, however. Bishop Sharp went east, some days since, presumably to bring the railroad interest to the rescue of polygcompany. Sunday's preaching at the taber-nacle by Apostles Wells and Thatcher affirmed that the sum of Mormon disloyalty was their abhorrence to Jesus Christ, de-ground that congress is required by the constitution to guarantee to every state a repub-

and the government, showing itself, will soon have plenty of Mormon supporters. A large proportion of them are secretly praying, while signing petitions against it, for congressional action so decisive as to enable them to come out in favor of it without fear. Pass any bill less sweeping, and on the contrary they will be whipped in and kept in, and the long, wearisome fight against decency will grind on indefinitely as in the past. Therefore, we most respectfully, yet earnestly, urge the pas-sage by congress of Willet's bill for a com-

It contains a valuable clause, authorizing the postmaster-general, in cases where a contractor sublets to another, to declare the original transaction off, and to enter into a contract with the sub-contractor directly.

A MASSACHUSETTS court has decided that the movements and motives of railway officials are proper subjects for public discussion The case arose out of a suit for libel against the Boston Daily Advertiser. Judge Lowell. in overruling the demurrer, said: "The character of the plaintiff as a constructor and manager of railroads seems to me to be open to public discussion when he comes forward with so great and important a project, affect ing many interests besides the shareholders of one road, and that, therefore, the defendant or any other persons have a qualified privilege which attaches to discussions of publie affairs; the distinction is that when a railroad is to be built or a company to build it is to be chartered, the question whether it shall be authorized is a public one. When the company is organized and the stock is issued any thing which merely affects the value of the stock is private."

SOME CORRECTIONS.

In the last issue of the Thomasville Enter prise we find the following:

Parson Felton charges, in his letter in reply to Governor Smith, that a negro girl was sentenced, in to five years in the penitentiary for stealing fifty cents from a colored child. He says he ined the information from THE CONSTITUTION. Well, either THE CONSTITUTION made a woful misstatement or the parson has misrepresented the case most egregiously. No one can, under our law, be sent to the penitentiary for stealing from another fifty cents or fifty dollars, and if Dr. Felton does not know that to be true he is criminally ignorant of the laws of his own state, when we consider the offices he has filled and the prominence he has obtained. We advise him to study the penal code a little more. But suppose the judge, so far exceeding his authority as to impose a sentence greater the lease system or any other system upon which the penitentiary may be managed?

This gives us an opportunity to make some corrections which we supposed would be made by Governor Smith in his reply to Dr Felton's on aught. In the first place, no negro girl has been sentenced in Atlanta or in Georgia to five years in the penitentiary for stealing fifty cents. Dr. Felton evidently misunderstood the facts in the case, which are these: A little colored girl, going along the street with a sum of money in her hand, was set upon and robbed by one of the characters technically known as street-walkers. The crime was brought to the attention of the grand jury and the woman was indicted for highway robbery. The jury before which she was tried brought in a verdict of guilty. Under this verdict the shortest time for which she could be sentenced was five years, and she was sentenced for five years accord-

It will be observed that the facts put a different light on the matter; but even if everything had been as Dr. Felton understood it to be, the fact that a girl is sentenced to the force he was forcibly expelled from penitentiary for stealing fifty cents is no argument against the lease system; if it is it must the be an argument against all penitentiary sys-

AMERICAN KISSES.

Sacred as this sweet subject is, its sanctity nas not preserved it from the gross hand of the irreverent journalist of to-day. A remarkable epidemic of editorials on kissing and dovelike journalists of the Quaker city are responsible for the sacrilege, and it suffices to say that neither they nor their able imitators seem to know anything whereof they spake.

A Doctor Bombangs-curiously enough, by way, a Philadelphian -has the proud title of historian laurette of the kiss in literature; but it has remained for a learned Massetts man, M. E. Baiser, Ph. D., to write a thorough, scientific and accurate ograph on the subject of American kisses. brochure is shortly to be published at the versity Press, Cambridge, Mass. Doctor ser says he has had his text carefully re-

It is not within our province to give liberal extracts from a yet unpublished book; but it suffices to say that the substance of Dr. Baiser's argument and illustration goes to prove that the kiss of the American girl partakes of a local flavor. To quote a few instances, he says that the Maine girl, tall and ruddy, kisses as though she were taking an impression in the chewing gum of her native state. The Massachusetts girl kisses in the Greek style, flavored with brown bread. The New York girl goes at it as if she were dabbling in a Wall street speculation. The kiss of the New Jersey girl is fiery, as a taste of apple-jack, better known as Jersey lightning. Little Delaware's girls are as soft as the peaches which grow there. A Maryland kiss is rich and juicy as a terrapin stew. In the old dominion you are met with genuine hospitality; the girls kiss as though they wanted you to stay. The Ohio girl is described as possessing the comprehensive qualities of an Ohio man-she wants all she can get and gets all she can. A Louisiana kiss is said to be like eating sugar-cane; while North Carolina girls stick like tar.

These are only a tew of the attributes given by Dr. Baiser to the character of American kissing. Were it not for the examples cited in the brochure, it might be thought that there is no basis for such a theory as this. Moreover, when he gives the palm to Georgia girls when he says her kisses are as plastic as the Maine girl's; as warm as the Jersey girl; as peach downy as the Delawarean; as sweet as the Louisianian-in fine, combining the best attributes of all, then we know that Dr. Baiser knows whereof he speaks. If no one believes it, just let him ask some fellow's sister to experiment with him.

THE CONDITION OF BUSINESS.

Liquidation that began fully nine months ago and that was quickened by the assassination of President Garfield, went on rapidly during the past week. This liquidation was particularly active in the stock market last week, after a fine run in the produce and cotton markets. It is now believed that this healthful operation has about covered the ground, and that all, or nearly all, artificial prices have been destroyed, and that we are now on rock bottom. We wrote with deliberate intention when we described the process of liquidation as healthful and desirable; for it is to this course in trade that we are indebted for the present strong and impregnable condition of business. The caution that sprang up in these months of settlement and trimming of sails has rendered a panic impossible, and given us a basis for a long period of heathful prosperity.

Just now the balance of trade is running against this country, and some gold has been exported, and perhaps a million or so more may go; but the prevailing belief is that a freer movement in cotton and other products will soon put an end to the shipment of specie. And even if there is a moderate outflow until next fall, no trouble need be apprehended. We are now rich enough to stand an unfavorable balance for a considerable length of time. All the indications now are that a fine crop of winter wheat will be harvested, and if the other crops are good we can next fall defy the world, commercially speaking. This, in other words, is a country that produces its own supplies and manufactures to a great extent its own goods. The "allcotton" plan happily does not extend over the country.

Not only did liquidation move on in thiscountry last week, but across the water the temporary effects of a rather severe spell of it, wore off. Both in France and England business is improving, and matters of a financial nature are rapidly getting on a good basis again. The bank of England and the bank of France gained in coip, and discount rates have been reduced in both of them to the neighborhood of rates that existed before the flurry.

In this country the belief is every day strengthening that prices have fallen as far below real value in many instances as they rose too high in the last months of 1880, and the early part of 1881. This brings in cash buyers, and gives a strong and healthy undertone to the market. The belief, too, that a year of good crops is ahead of us, together with the fact that the business and currency of the country were never in a sounder con dition, creates a feeling of confidence in the outcome of the year that the fluctuations of Wall street cannot seriously disturb.

THE BRADLAUGH CASE.

A brief history of Mr. Bradlaugh's attempts to gain a seat in the house of commons, or Potato society." rather to become a martyr, may not be out of place on account of the length of the contest. He and Mr. Labouchere were returned in 1880 by the shoemakers of Northampton. Their majority was large and unmistakable. Mr. Labouchere was readily sworn but when Mr. Bradlaugh appeared he asked to be allowed to affirm, because the oath was meaningless to him-"a meaningless addendum to a promise." The law officers of the government decided that if he affirmed he must do so at his own risk; and when th matter was brought before the courts it was de cided that he had no right to sit or vote on simple affirmation. A new election was held, and Mr. Bradlaugh was re-elected. At the last session he was simply kept out of his the chamber altogether. This was state of the case when on the 7th instant he attempted, after swallowing his own words to the extent of stating that the oath would bind his conscience, to take it suddenly in the house by pulling out a testament from his own pocket, repeating the words of the oath and subscribing to it without the aid of the clerk. For this underhas broken out. Strange to say the demure ground proceeding he was summarily expelled from the house, and a new writ has been ordered to isuc. Mr. Bradlaugh will undoubtedly be re-elected. and thus the ques tions involved are as far from settlement as

Mr. Bradlaugh is an avowed atheist, and it was on this account and no other that he matter upon public attention. was expelled. The technical right of the house to expel him is perhaps beyond dispute; but it is not so clear that it has a moral right to disfranchise even partially the people of Northampton. Then, too, it is far from clear that it is good policy to let a notorious leader of the free-thinkers pose as'a martyr, and stir up prejudice against religious people. Altovised by Professor Maria Cummings of Vassar gether it seems plain that the house has are the first to go. Our Washington corres blundered, and must continue to blunder if it continues to be consistent. This blunder was made at the instance of Sir Stafford Northcote and the conservatives, but it has had to some extent the support of the liberals and a portion of the cabinet, Mr. Gladstone for once has refused to face the music. He favored the admission of Bradlaugh on legal grounds, but the hero of a hundred campaigns, the grandest man in many respects of the times, declined to assume the responsibility of affirmative action, and virtually handed the leadership of the house over to Sir Stafford Northcote. Party lines were not regarded, neither were the legal rights of the claimant, nor was the will of Northampton considered Mr. Bradlaugh was expelled, and the whole thing will doubtless have to be repeated long before the present session is ended. The blood of Northampton is up, and Mr. Brad-laugh is a very willing martyr. A REUNION-PAST AND TO COME In 1868-now fourteen years ago-38 young me stood around the old oak in the "campus" of the university at Athens. They had just received their diplomas, and had gathered about the class tree to bid each other good-bye. The statistics showed that the class had produced sixteen lawyers, three doctors, three ministers, seven business men, two planters one journalist, and the others miscellaneous Twenty-two members of the class had married, but twer ty-seven marriage ceremonies had been performed. As high as has been the average of the record made by the living members of the class, and the of no class has ever surpassed, if any has equaled it, death has struck at shining marks. MADAME LUCAS. Round-Robin series. Boston James R. Osgood & Co., Atlanta: Holman, Coffin & Co. Price $1.

This story, which seems to fill every requiremen f the modern society novel, opens in Paris, rush ff to our American St. Louis, where school-boys carry razors and gamble, flies off down the river to desolate bayou bank, and ends in Italy. It deals with the superficials in life and character; gathers ogether a goodly array of delightfully silly women and pleasantly stupid men; uses foreign language nimbly and copiously; touches feebly yet enthusiastically upon the borders of Dado-land, of which scar Wilde is at present the most notorious citizen and does other nice and proper things in a rather charming style, the pertness and flippancy of which suggests the first effort of a young lady who lacks othing in the way of novel-writing save human experience, which is everything.

oods, A Novel. By Louise M. Alcott, Author of "Little Women." Boston: Roberts Brothers. Atlanta: Holman, Coffin & Co. Pp. 559. Price $1.50

This volume was written when Miss Alcott was an old maid of eighteen. Naturally enough, when she came to offer it to the juvenile publisher, the foolish boy objected to some of the chapters. The author having nothing but years and experience on her side was compelled to submit to the tast and convenience of the publisher. The book wa published and was a failure. It is republished no with an explanation than which nothing could be deadlier. It has been enlarged, and some of the original chapters restored. This is a remarkable instance of feminine perversity, for the book, as it stands and as it stood, lacks every quality that has made Miss Alcott's later works so remarkably suc cessful. No girl of eighteen can write a novel, no even if she possessed the genius of all the women and all the men that ever existed on the face of the earth; for even genius cannot write novels without the aid of observation and experience. But Moods" will interest young people who imagine that sensibility is a special gift.

CAPTURING A LOCOMOTIVE A History of Secre Service in the Late War, by Rev. William Pitten ger. Illustrated. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippin-cott & Co. Atlanta: Holman, Coffin & Co. Pp. 354. There is probably not a citizen of Atlanta who i ot familiar with the events detailed in this vol ume. It is the story of the capture during the war of a locomotive at Big Shanty by a party of daring federal soldiers, and of the no less daring pursuit and capture of the party by Captain Fulle and Anthony Murphy. It was a desperate under taking on both sides—the capture of the locomotive by the little band of federals and its recapture by the little of confederates. Mr. Pittenger, the author of this history of the affair, was one of the federals who aided Andrews to capture the locomotive, and he tells the story without exaggeration and with due regard for all the facts on both sides. The book s not only a vivid narrative of this particula vent, but in grouping the details and results, the uthor has managed to give to the public a most graphic picture of one phase of the war. It all reads like a romance, and vet it is a simple narra tive of facts. The book contains a tolerably good portrait of Captain Fuller.

Numa Roumestan. By Alphonse Daudet. Trans-lated from the French by Virginia Champlin. Illustrated. Boston: Lee & Sheparu. Atlanta: Holman, Coffin & Co. Price $1.

From "The Prodigious Adventures of Tartarin of Tarascon" to "Numa Roumestan" is a leap of ex aordinary proportions. One is a wild toolist rague burlesque, while the other is 'a remarkable study of character. If by some process of imagina-tion one could invest Mr. Junior James's puppets "The Portrait of a Lady" with the fire and vigor of life-could infuse the perfectly painted portrait with the essence of a sweet virility-we should pave something approaching Daudet's fierce little procession of characters in "Numa Roumestan. translator has caught something of Dandet's sinuous flexibility of style-something of that tre nendous naivette suggested by the fact that Tragedy and Comedy sometimes meet and have a in every man's back-yard; something of the trickery of speech which, in Shakspeare, we call poetry and, in other people, power of expression. It has been suggested that Numa Roumestan, the character whose name gives the book its title, has been drawn with Gambetta as a model. This is ot even plausible; for isn't the history of this pol itician identical with the career of the Hon. Boli var Bulldozer? Doesn't the Hon. Bolivar boldly tell his friends that he lies in order to put things "in a more favorable fight?" Doesn't he say that it 'depends on latitudes' whether words mean any thing or not? Is it not true that the Hon. Bolivar Bulldozer has "that outward appearance of sensi oility which deceives one as to the true background character?" Isn't the Hon. Bolivar, esteemed by the public as a great patriot and fine leader, known to his wife as a sensuous sneak, a vulgar wretch. a liar and a tyrant? Some striking traits of the political leader are revealed with most consummat art, and these traits will be recognized by the sa gacious reader to be as common in America as in France. As citizens of the great North American republic, we return thanks to Daudet for showing us that the demagogue in politics is not an exclu sively American product. Meantime, those whdesire to read a very clever novel, marred here and there by relatively mild attempts to cater to the seemingly overwhelming French appetite for pastiness, will find entertainment in "Numa Roumes tan;" and in addition to this, they will find it to be a very profound study of human nature,

I am told that Prince Leopold has been appointed a coloned in the army in order that he may be married in a becoming uniform, as the peers' robes or the Trinity house uniform are hardly suitable for the occasion, and for a prince to be married in plain clothes would be an innovation which would horrify the rigid purists of our court.

The Demagogue's Platform

Hawkinsville Dispatch.

It is strange that all the independent democrats who are now seeking the governorship of Georgia, are opposed to the present system of leasing the state convicts. This seems more like demagogueism than patriotism or statesmanship. There are over twelve hundred of these convicts, who are fed and clothed by the lessees, and for whom the lessees pay to the state about twenty thousand dollars a year. Now, if the state should attempt to confine these convicts in the penitentiary it would require one hundred dollars each for their support, or one hundred and twenty thousand dollars per annum. Do the people of Georgia feel able to incur this vast expense to gratify a little bit of foolish sentiment?

As the train goes by the Lassengers all inquire: "Who is that remarkably fine-looking gentleman with the benignant countenance and yet haughty air?" and the chorus of brakemen, train boys, conductors and firemen reply: "That'y why: that is the governor of the countenance and yet haughty aff?" and rus of brakemen, train boys, conductors men reply: "That? why that is the govers state; isn't he stately?" After the train we excellency puts on his overcoat and goe the capital to commune with Mr. Farr afforded his loyal citizens of Missouri an cof manly beauty.

Puzzling to the Photographer.

Eau Claire Free Press.

A very mysterious and unaccountable occurrence is stated to have taken place a day or two ago at one of the phatograph galleries in Eau Claire, Wis, It was neither more nor less than the unintentional production, three times in succession, by the unwilling photographer, of a tintype corresponding very nearly to the regulation "spirit picture;" that is, there was, according to the statement, another figure in the picture besides those of the two who sat for it. That there was no one in the gallery at the time except the photographer and the persons who sat for the picture the photographer is said to be willing to assert by the most solemn asservations. Still, it is certain that when the first picture was taken a blur appeared between the two heads in the photograph; a second trial resulted in the same way, and a third trial made a photograph with an upraised hand and arm distinctly portrayed between the shoulders of the two persons in the photograph.

The American people cheerfully recognize the service rendered by General Grant to the country, and the proposition to place him on the retired list with corresponding pay would be generally indorsed; but the people will not be likely ever to recognize General Grant as a great political leader, with an inherent right to be president as often and whenever he or his immmediate followers choose. All patriotic citizens desire to regard General Grant with the greatest respect, and it is only to be regretted that he permits himself to be dragged from his lofty position by place hunting politicians who attach value to his name. An ex-presioen of the United Scates should be above the business of office broker. Perhaps injustice has been done to General Grant in this respect, and perhaps he meddles far less with office seeking than is reported. This the American people would be glad to believe, and, in any event, they will not grumble if congress should place him on the retired list with reasonable provisions for his support. In futile efforts to enforce its prohibitory liquor law, Kansas, is finding how perjury is fostered by its inquisition, and how the lagenuity of man, when excited by stringent repressive incasures, circumvent the written law. A seller of beer was being prosecuted, and the prosecution failed because there was no proof. The wimesses said they drank sea form, not beer. Did it foam like beer? It did. Could you discover any difference between it and beer? No, what, then, is your judgment, was it? It was sea foam. What is sea foam? I don't know. Thus it goes, and it is notoriously the fact that since the attempted enforcement of the prohibitory law in Kansas the consumption of liquor in that state has increased, and with it there has been a painful and demoralizing increase of intoxication. It is the history of the world, especially the history of free

NEAR CARTERSVILLE, GA., February 25th, 1882 .rejoinder in your columns it excited my profound iating to every citizen of the state to see a former executive and the chairman of the railroad commission unable or unwilling to defend his official integrity against charges that were well defined, positive and unequivocal. If explanation had oeen possible, it was eminently due to the people of Georgia that he should establish beyond dispute his reputation for justice, fairness and impartiality. Having attacked me without provocation, he thereby chatlenged me to investigate his own official and political record, and he has had abundant opportunity to establish his innocence or palliste his errors, if it had been possible. Instead of refutation or explanation, he evades every issue, and by a most unnatural silence he stands confessed to the world as guilty of every charge I brought against him. iating to every citizen of the state to see a former

Mr. Hugh T. Inman was made temporary chairman, and will be ex-officio chairman of the following temporary executive committee:

R Peters, R M Clark, R D Spalding, L J Hill, R H Bichards, Geo W Parrott.

The following committee was appointed to procure a charter:
R Peters, R D Spalding and E P Howell.
The erection of the new factory with not less than ten thousand spindles is an assured fact.
By the 5th of October the people will again see inaugurated on the ground of the late exposition a grand enterprise that will be to our city for years to come of as much benefit each year as the exposition was during the year 1881. The men who have subseribed their money for this mill were foremost in helping the exposition. They have one determination in organizing the company, and that is to demonstrate that Atlanta, on account of its surroundings, with cheap coal, good water, a healthy climate, and situated in the midst of the cotton belt is the best place in the United States to manufacture cotton goods. This mill will be the pioneer of many more in Atlanta. In fact two companies will be formed in this city in less than twelve months with a quarter of a million dollars capital, if the Exposition cotton mills are successful. Parties have expressed their determination to do so.

Every dollar of the stock of this company was paid in Atlanta, by Atlanta men, and by men who have been successful in all their undertakings here. They are men who closely calculate all the chances, and it is safe to predict that it will be a well-managed institution from the start.

The selection of Mr. Hugh T. Inman as the head well-managed institution from the start.

An Incomparable Clows. When the late George L. Fox died it was gener-When the late George L. Fox died it was generally conceded that as he had no equal when living be could have no successor when dead. For years this prediction has been verified. At last, however, there is a man upon whose shoulders the mantle of the great clown falls becomingly. Mr. George H. Adams, who has been at the head of American pantomime for many seasons has at last, through remarkable talent, conscientious and delicate work, and a subtle appreciation of the humorous, fairly established himself as the equal of Fox. The pantomime, in the hands of such as he, is a joy perpetual and hundreds have witnessed his performances in this city with the keenest pleasure. Although a young man, he is easily incomparable, and stands so far at the head of American pantomimists that to see him once is to destroy all inclination to see any one else mangle the part that he handles with such subtle and unctious humor.

A SECRET MARRIAGE

The ceremony which links the destinies of these two Atlantians was witnessed by Mr. Hilburn's family alone, and upon these as well as upon the minister was placed; an injunction of secrecy, which has been faithfully observed. For some cause the contracting parties feared that the marriage would not meet with the approbation of the bride's parents, and for this reason the ceremony was performed secretly.

However the marriage leaked out, and yesterday Mr. Ralls made an announcement of the same and the happy pair were granted an absolute pardon by the lady's parents

Mr. Ralls is a young gentleman well known and highly esteemed in Allanta, while his bride, by her gentle, kind disposition and christian character, has won scores of friends who wish her a happy life.

MRS. POTTS'S DUPLICATE.

A Lady and Her Husband Walk from Texas to

Just before the West Point train left the city las night, Officer Porter, of the car shed department approached a Constitution representative and

"Yes, we walked. We started at Sulphur Springs, in Hopkins county. Texas, and walked to Ozark in Arkansas. We then took the railroad and tramped the cross ties to Little Rock. This was about two hundred miles. From Little Rock we walked to Memphis on the Memphis and Little Rocksrallroad, and such walking. Why Potts was no where. We counted ties for one hundred and thirty-five miles. Sometimes we were on trestle work fifty and one hundred feet high. And then we got water bound just the other side of Memphis. From Memphis we took the Memphis and Charleston road and walked into Chattanooga, a distance of 332 miles. This road had just been covered with small stones and the walking was awful, but we were used to hard treatment by that time and got over it all right. At Ch-ttanooga we took the Western and Atlantic railroad bed and walked to Dalton, where a conductor took us up and gave us the first we took the Western and Atlantic railroad bed and walked to Dalton, where a conductor took us up and gave us the first and only ride we had on the trip. We rode with him to Marietta and then walked in to Atlanta. We are now going home."

"What are you going to do then?" asked the scribe after Mrs. Martin had finished her recital.

"Stay; I'll never leave Georgia again. In fact, I don't intend to go so far from my house that I can't get back before dark. Why, see here, stranger, last December we went to Texas We had $500 in cash and rode. Now we are dead broke and have to walk. Don't you think we had better stay to walk.

Just then the conductor shouted all aboard, and the lead-slinger skipped.

Chicago Tribune.

"I see you beat the record this morning," said the horse reporter to the law editor, as these two powerful minds were being conveyed to the fourth floor of the Tribune building yesterday morning.

"What did yer say, sir" replied the law editor in an interrogative manner, as he gazed fixedly into the surrounding atmosphere.

"My remark," resumed the personal friend of St. Julien," was intended to convey the idea that when it comes to writing anything about a horse race the average law editor is as certain to fall at the first hurdle as Maud S. is to beat an omnibus with eighteen passengers in it. I'm not an editor myself—nothing but a simple, blue eyed deck hand—but if ever I made such breaks as some people do when they tackle a subject so completely interwoven with dur social fabric as is horse-racing, I would at once cut my journalistic propensities and start a peanut fake on some prominent street corner."

approached a Constitution representative and said:

"In the West Point coach you will find a man and woman who have walked all the way from Texas. Their home is at Palmetto, and they are now auxiously awaiting the departure of the train that shall soon land them smong their old friends."

The statement caused Madam Pottr's memorable tramp to recur to the scribe's mind, and in a second he was searching the coach for the woman who had muscle enough to attempt to rival the greatest female pedestrian of modern times. Sitting near the rear end of the coach the reporter's eye detected a couple bending over a stove nursing the heat. A glance at them was enough to confirm his suspicion. Their clothing was worn and solled, and their faces and hands gave evidence of exposure to the weather. The man was a large individual of about fifty years of age, while the woman, who seemed to be about thirty, was considerably smaller. After the additional their faces and Georgia, the reporter approached the arduous task of counting the eross-ties between Texas and Georgia, the reporter approached them and said:

"Yes," responded the lady.

"What's your name?"

"Yes," responded the lady.

"What's your name?"

"Yes," responded the lady.

"When did you leave Texas?"
"Seven weeks ago.
"And been traveling all this time? I thought you could go to Texas in two or three days," said the pencil pusher, affecting surprise.
"So you can if you ride?" replied Mr. Martin.
"Well, didn't you ride?" asked the reporter.
"Not a step until we got inside of Georgia," was Mrs. Martin sanswer.
"And you walked from Texas. That's a good tramp."
"Yes, we waked. We started at Sulphur Springs, in Hopkins county. Texas, and walked to Ozark in Arkansas. We then took the railroad and tramped the cross ties to Little Rock. Tony Pastor owns and runs a first-class theatre in New York, and has gathered about him the best troop of variety artists that could be obtained anywhere.

In speaking of the exhibition of Black Crook in Washington city, the National Republican says: The nakedness of the Black Crook troupe may be a thing of beauty, adorned as it is here and there with a stray spangle, put on to reflect the colored lights, but the private chambers of a medical musually seem to be the proper place for seum would seem to be the proper place for such an exhibition of the female anatomy of the human form divine. Still it draws crowd-ed houses, the front seats being filled with the sage statesmen who voted so vociferously for the enforcement of the anti-polygamy bill.

Matters and Things to be Observed During the Senso Lent began on Wednesday (Ash Wednesday). Following are the regulations:

1. All of the faithful who have completed their twenty-first year are, unless legiting dispensed, bound to observe the fast of dispensed, bound to observe the tast of 2. They are to make only one meal a day, except on Sundays.

3. The meal allowed on fast days is not to be taken until about noon.

4. At that meal, if on any day permission should be granted for eating flesh, both flesh and fish shall not be used at the same

5. A small refreshment, commonly called a collation, is allowed in the evening. No general rule as to the quantity of food permitted at this, is, or can be made; but the practice of the most regular Christian is, never to let it exceed the fourth part of an ordinary meal.

6. The quality of food allowed at a collation in this diocese, is bread, butter, eggs, cheese, milk, all kinds of fruits, vegetables and cold fish.

General usage has made it lawful to take n the morning some warm liquid, as tea, offee, or thin chocolate and a cracker. 8. Necessity and custom have authorized the use of lard, instead of butter, in preparing fish, vegetables, etc. on insh, vegetables, etc.

9. The following persons are exempts from the obligation of fasting: Young persons under twenty-one years of age; the sick; nursing women; those who are obliged to do hard work, and all who, through weakness, cannot fast without prejudice to their health.

10. By dispensation the use of flesh meat is allowed at any time on Sundays once a day. allowed at any time on Sundays, once a day on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Satur-days, with the exception of the second and last Saturdays of lent.

last Saturdays of lent.

11. Persons dispensed from the obligation of fasting on account of tender or advanced age, or hard labor, are not bound by the restrictions of using meat only at one meal on days on which its use is granted by dispensa-tion. Those dispensed from the fast for other causes, as well as those who are obliged to fast, are permitted to use meat at only one

George F. Slosson, the handler of the cue, who was entirely too much for Vigneaux even in a room crowded with chattering French-men, arrived at New York, in the Servia, from Europe, yesterday. THE COTTON MARKET

omplete change and its general appearance indimore strength than has been exhibited in some time. At the opening this morning futures retained the firmness that was manifested at the ose yesterday, and with prices 8@10 points higher began an upward movement which continued throughout the day. About noon the market was quoted steady, but subsequently the market verged into a firm feeling which was sustained up to the close. There is still considerable excitement in the market, and the heavy advance has created much nment. At the close futures showed a gain of 20@25 points since the close vesterday. The spot market has likewise improved to some extent and an advance of 1-16c was quotable at the close; middling now 1111-16c. Net receipts continue light.

Net receipts to-day amount to 6,572 bales, against 25,615 bales last year; exports 16,572 bales; last year
25,600 bales; stock 1,074,698 bales; last year 265,202 bales.

NEW YORK, February 25-The Post's cotton market report says: "Future deliveries, at the first call, 11@13-100 dearer, and the second and last calls showed a further improvement of 6@7-100, and after the call the inquiry was brisk enough to enable sellers to obtain still 4@5-100 higher prices. Then the demand fell off, and sellers had to give way four points. This led to a revival, and the sales of the day sum up 102,000 bales. The market close firm, rMach to September inclusive, 20 to 23-100 higher than yesterday. The chief buying has been for covering, but the usual speculators profited by the movement and helped on the advance.

NEW YORK, February 25-The total visible supply of cotton for the world is 3,121,105 bales, of which 2,457,719 bales is American, against 2,926,450 and 2,491,096 bales respectively last year.

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER.

A cold or sore throat may not seem to amount to much, and if prompt. attended to can easily be cured; but neglect is eften followed by consumption or diphtheria. No medicine has even been discovered which acts so quickly and surely in such, cases as PERRY DAVIS PAIN KILLER. The prompt use of this invaluable remely has saved thousands of lives. PERRY DAVIS PAIN KILLER is not an experiment. It has been before the public for forty years, and is most valued where it is best known. A few extracts from voluntary testimondals read as follows:

PAIN KILLER has been my household remody for colds for the past twenty-sown, years, and have never known is to fail in effecting a cure.—
L. S. CROCERS, Williamsville, N. Y.
Por thirty years I have used PAIN KILLER, and found it a never-failing remody for codes and some throat—Barron Sezalan.

The

church will be a most important one. The death of Bishop wightman in Charleston, makes three bishops of the M is church, south, who have died since the street talk, and so multiplied are the views expressed that a Constitution representative yesterday sought Councilman Knapp, views expressed that a Constitction representative yesterday sought Councilman Knapp, chairman of the street committee, through whose hands all these petitions pass in order to ascertain the exact status of affairs. The councilman was in his office, and greeted the cedar shover with a smile, and then the following interview occurred:

"What about that resolution offered by you. "What about that resolution offered by you

"What about that resolution offered by you and adepted at last session of council appropriating $22,000 to macadamize certain streets?" asked the reporter.

"That resolution was the outgrowth of a recommendation made by the commissioners of streets on petitions from property holders along McDonough, Washington, Feachtree, and Whitehall streets asking that those streets be macadamized as provided for under the provisions of a late act amendatory to the city charter." "What would be the total cost of macadam

izing those streets?"
"It is proposed to do the work in such a manner that our citizens will be thoroughly satisfied with the expenditure of their indisatisfied with the expenditure of their intri-vidual funds, as they pay two-thirds of the cost, and also of the city's money. The total cost of the work already passed upon by the council is $66,264.18, of which the property owners will pay $44,176.12 and the city $22,088.06."

What will be the necessary outlay on each

"What will be the necessary outlay on each of the streets mentioned?"

"On Whitehall street the property holders pay $5,189.92, and the city $2,594.97; on Washington street the property owners pay $12,-369.07, and the city $6,184.53; on Peachtree street the property owners pay $15,083.80, and the city $7,541.90, and on McDonough street the property owners pay $11,533.34, and the city $5,766.66."

"On which streets do the property owners pay most per front foot, considering the total length to be macadamized?"

"On Washington and McDonough, as upon those streets the street railroad runs but a short distance comparatively, and consequently the property owners fronting upon the street where there is no line of railroad have two-thirds of the whole width of the street to pave, whereas where there is the street railroad they only pay for two-thirds of that unpave, whereas where there is the street railroad they only pay for two-thirds of that unpaved by the street railroad. Just here is where those who own property along the street railroad lines are now reaping a considerable advantage over their less favored neighbors, inasmuch as the street railroad companies are obliged to pave or macademize the width of their road-bed and three feet on each side. So that in on each side. So that, in a fifty foot street, whose road-way is thirty-two feet, the street railroad company paves ten feet, leaving only twenty-two feet to be paid for by the adjoining property owners and the city."

"How is the work to be done? In the same 'slipsyad' manner as heretofore?"

of Colonel J. Eade Lewis, of South Carolina. She had carried off several premiums at state fairs ir both Georgia and South Carolina.

On Tuesday night last, 22d instant, they were driven from Mr. Stewart's, and that gentleman reported the fact promptly to Mr. Harrison, who printed and issued handbills late Wednesday evening describing the cows. One of these fell into the hands of Mr. W. R. Page, who, having read the description of the cows, had his suspicions excited by seeing some large pieces of beef in a beef market belonging to a negro on Fraser street. Early Thursday morning he called at this market, made

"Will Alabama street be paved first?"

"Yes. City-Engineer Clayton has already prepared his specifications, and The Constitution on Sunday will have an advertisement asking for bids not only for the stone, but for all the work. When this is done the people of Atlanta will begin to have some faith in the numerous promises that have been made about our street improvements. But I must ask you to call again," and away the councilfman went to investigate a real estate purchase. to investigate a real estate purchase.

Owing to the invention of improved machine Owing to the invention of improved machiners for manipulating the cocoons, manufacturers are enabled to pay a good price for them, which makes it highly profitable to the producer. It is within the past few years that it has been discovered that the osage orange tree produces a fine quality of silk

We have in this country over two hundred silk mills, and the number rapidly increasing, and with the fast increasing demand for silk, are among the chief reasons why silk culture is profitable now and was not many years ago. We have had many years experience in silk culture, both in France and in this country, and we know that the south offers the best advantages of any country in the world for the culture of silk. We are establishing at this place silk mills for the purpose of reeling silk, and our object, if possible, is to disabuse the minds of the people that the object is speculation that we agitate the subject. To show our confidence in the profit of silk culture, we will make this offer:

To all who have either the white mulberry or osage orange, we will furnish them eggs and take our pay in part of the crop, and for the other part, will allow from $1.50 to $2.50 per pound for the co-coons. We have in this country over two hundred silk will allow from $1.50 to $2.50 per pound for the cocoons.

We have thousands of the osage orange in the south, and if our offer is generally accepted an interest of wonderful importance will be quickly developed. By giving this a place in your columns, we think it will enable and induce a large number to engage in silk culture who would not do so if they had to buy their eggs. We could give the name of a lady not far distant from here who made over $500 last year in silk culture. Respectfully yours.

Court Week at Clarksville, Ga. Court Week at Clarksville, Ga.

ATLANTA, Ga., February 25th, 1882.—We are informed by W. J. Houston, general passenger and ticket agent of the Northeastern railroad, that commencing Monday, February 27th, trains will runthrough from Athens to Clarksville without changes forming direct connection east and west with train, of the Richmond and Danville railroad both at Lula and Rabun Gap junction. People living along the line of the Richmond and Danville railroad who have business in court at Clarksville next week will hail this event with joy, as it is such an improvement over the old mode of reaching that point. See schedule in auother column.

George Leonard Chaney, a Unitarian clergyman of Boston, Mass., is visiting Atlanta at this time, in the interest of moral and religious reconstruction throughout the union. In the pursuit of his profession in Boston for fifteen years, he has been actively interested in the establishment of schools for poor white children in Richmond, Va., and Wilmington, N. C., and for freedmen in Charleston, S. C., and Hampton, Va. He has labored for the cause of industrial education with Mr. Edward Atkinson, of Boston, and General Eaton, the commissioner of education in Washington, and these gentlemen bespeak for him the furtherance of our people. While here he will preach in the senatchamber on Sunday, giving the remainder of the week to inspecting our schools and industries.

Before the Commissioner.—Yesterday, Idus Osborn and Burney Deason, of Jasper county, were before Commissioner Smith charged with illicit distilling. They were each put under bond for their appearance at the next term of the district court at Macon.

THE DUST.—In spite of the fact that a few days ago the mud on the streets was six inches deep, the complaint is now lodged against the dust. The town is full of it. The monitor street sprinklers were out yesterday on the principal streets, to the great joy of thousands of pedestrians.

TANNER'S COURT—Moses Fernander, Sam Allen and Thomas Madison were before Jus-tice Tanner yesterday, charged with stealing cotton from A. Rice & Son and Treadwell & Co. Madison was sent to jail to await trial by the city court and the others were committed to await a further trial to-morrow.

THE METHODIST CONFERENCE.—The next general conference of the Methodist church will be a most important one. The death of Bishop Wightman in Charleston, makes three bishops of the ME church, south, who have died since the left processed conference. Bishops Marrin of last general conference—Bishops Marvin, of St. Louis, and Doggett of Richmond, Virgin-St. Louis, and Doggett of Richmond, Virginia, and Bishop Wightman. Bishops Pierce, of Georgia, Kavanaugh of Kentucky, and Paine of Mississippi are said to be incapacitated for active duty by ill-health. The general conference of the Methodist Episcoal church, south, will meet at Nashville pal church, south, will meet at Nashville, Tennessee, in May next, and there will be four, and probably, six, bishops to be elected. Among the probable candidates from Georgia will be Dr. Haygood and Dr. J. H. Potter. Missouri thinks she should be honored, and one of the state papers says that the conference will hardly disregard such men as Rev. William R. Rush disregard such men as Rev. William R. Rush and Rev. Eugene R. Rush. Both of them are in the enjoyment of perfect health.

A cold of sore throat may not seem to amount to much, and if prompt, attended to can easily be cured; but neglect is often followed by consumption or diphthesta. No medicine has even been discovered which acts so quickly and surely in such cases as PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLIER is not an experiment. A few extracts from voluntary testimonials read as follows:

THE CITY STREETS.

The Views of Councilman Knapp as to How to Meet the Questlon.

Since the legislature adopted the bill amending the city charter of Atlanta the city council has been flooded with petitions and resolutions looking to improvements and additional expenditures of money. Notably among these improvements is the macademizing of the streets. According to the language of that section of the amendment which authorizes an expenditure in this direction, the amount expended must be paid out of the city treasury and by the and resolutions granting these petitions have passed the council.

Recently the question has been the leading topic for street talk, and so multiplied are the views expressed that a Constitution representative yesterday sought Councilman Knapp, chairman of the street committee, through whose hands all these petitions pass in order to ascertain the exact status of affairs. The councilman was in his office, and greeted the cedar shover with a smile, and then the following interview occurred: "What about that resolution offered by you and adopted at last session of council appro priating $22,000 to macadamize certain streets?" asked the reporter. "That resolution was the outgrowth of a recommendation made by the commissioners of streets on petitions from property holders along McDonough, Washington, Feachtree, and Whitehall streets asking that those streets be macadamized as provided for under the provisions of a late act amendatory to the city "What would be the total cost of macadam

izing those streets?"
"It is proposed to do the work in such a manner that our citizens will be thoroughly satisfied with the expenditure of their indisatisfied with the expenditure of their individual funds, as they pay two-thirds of the cost, and also of the city's money. The total cost of the work already passed upon by the council is $66,264.18, of which the property owners will pay $44,176.12 and the city $20.080 of?"

"On Whitehall street the property holders pay $5,189.92, and the city $2,594.97; on Washngton street the property owners pay $12.69.07, and the city $6,184.53; on Peachtree street the property owners pay $15,083.80, and the city $7,541.90, and on McDonough street the property owners pay $11,533.34, and the

On which streets do the property owners pay most per front foot, considering the tota length to be macadamized?" length to be macadamized?"
"On Washington and McDonough, as upon those streets the street railroad runs but a short distance comparatively, and consequently the property owners fronting upon the street where there is no line of railroad have two-thirds of the whole width of the street to paye, whereas where there is the street railroad they only now for two-thirds of that unrad they only now for two-thirds of that unrad they only now for two-thirds of that unroad they only pay for two-thirds of that unpaved by the street railroad. Just here is where those who own property along the street railroad lines are now reaping a consid-erable advantage over their less favored erable advantage over their less favored neighbors, inasmuch as the street railroad-companies are obliged to pave or macademize the width of their road-bed and three feet on each side. So that, in a fifty foot street, whose road-way is thirty-two feet, the street railroad company paves ten feet, leaving only twenty-two feet to be paid for by the adjoining property own-to be paid for by the adjoining property owners and the city."

"How is the work to be done? In the same 'slip-shed' manner as heretofore?"

"Not at all. The present council seems bent upon making this an administration of permanent improvements, and will not consent to have either the paving of the streets are sidewalks but down in the careless. on Tuesday night last, 22d instant, they were driven from Mr. Stewart's, and that gentleman reported the fact promptly to Mr. Harrison, who printed and issued handbills late Wednesday evening describing the cows. One it these fell into the hands of Mr. W. R. Page, who, having read the description of the cows, had his suspicions excited by seeing some large pieces of beef in a beef market belonging to a negro on Fraser street. Early Thursday morning he called at this market, made of three to five inches and each layer thoroughly rolled with a fifteen ton steam roller, so that when completed it will be nearly as hard as solid pavement. Of course all this work will be under the immediate supervision of the street commission, who, with Mr. John Berkele at its head, who was chairman of the street, committee presuretion inside. We would not be without it.— A. P. Rours, Liberty Mills, Va. For twenty-five years I have used PAIN KILLES for colds and chapped that, and consider it the ber-nedlichne ever offered.—Gro. Hoopen, Wilnington, ites from Coshocten: Your PAIN htheris and sore throat, so alarm-ore, and has not been known to instance. This fact you should be world.

who, with Mr. John Berkele at its head, who was chairman of the street committee under the old regime, will see that the work is thoroughly done."
"When do you begin work?"
"Just as soon as we can get proper appliances here. It will be necessary to purchase a steam roller and an additional rock crusher, and the commission is already in correspond. and the commission is already in correspond ence with the manufacturers."
"Will Alabama street be paved first?"

your columns to say he words in regard to sir-culture, a subject of great importance to our pee ple.

Many years ago we had no little excitement of silk culture, and large fortunes were made in sell silk culture, and large fortunes were made in selling trees and silk worm eggs, and since the present agitation of the subject most people believe that the present interest is being developed for the same purpose, and not odly refuse to engage in it, but will not even investigate the subject. We will prove in this article that silk culture is highly profitable, and that the present interest is not being developed for the same purpose of many years ago. We do, not say that parties will not take advantage of the interest manifested to speculate in eggs and trees, but under no circumstances could that be prevented.

We have in this country over two hundred silk We have in this country over two hundred sikk mills, and the number rapidly increasing, and with the fast increasing demand for silk, are among the chief reasons why silk culture is profitable now and was not many years ago. We have had many years experience in silk culture, both in France and in this country, and we know that the south offers the best advantages of any country in the world for the culture of silk. We are establishing at this place silk mills for the purpose of reeling silk, and our object, if possible, is to disabuse the minds of the people that the object is speculation that we agitate the subject. To show our confidence in the profit of silk culture, we will make this offer:

To all who have either the white mulberry or osage orange, we will furnish them eggs and take our pay in part of the crop, and for the other part, will allow from $1.50 to $2.50 per pound for the coons.

We have thousands of the osage orange in the south, and if our offer is generally accepted an interest of wonderful importance will be quickly developed. By giving this a place in your columns, we think it will enable and induce a large number e think it will chable and induce a large number oengage in silk culture who would not do so free had to buy their eggs. Court Week at Clarksville, Ga.

Court Week at Clarkaville, Ga.

ATLANTA, Ga., February 25th, 1882.—We are informed by W. J. Houston, general passeng r and ticket agent of the Northeastern railroad, that commencing Monday, February 25th, trains will run through from Athens to Clarksville without changes forming direct connection east and west with train, of the Richmond and Danville railroad both at Lula and Rabun Gap junction. People living along the line of the Richmond and Danville railroad who have business in court at Clarkaville next week will hait this event with joy, as it is such an improvement over the old mode of reaching that point. See schedule in another column.

George Leonard Chaney, a Unitarian clergyman of Boston, Mass., is visiting Atlanta at this time, in the interest of moral and religious reconstruction throughout the union. In the pursuit of his profession in Boston for fifteen years, he has been actively interested in the establishment of school for poor white children in Richmond, Va., and Wilmington, N. C., and for freedmen in Charleston, S. C., and Hampton, Va. He has labored for the cause of industrial education with Mr. Edward Atkinson, of Boston, and General Eaton, the commissioner of education in Washington, and these gentlemen bespeak for him the furtherance of our people. While here he will preach in the senatchamber on Sunday, giving the remainder of the week to inspecting our schools and industries.

A MAGNETIC MALLET.

A Curious Little Machine and What It Does. Dr. J. P. Huntley, whose dental office is at 251/2 Peachtree street, has a curious little instrument called the "Bonwill electro-magnetic mallet," which is used for driving in gold fillings. It is supplied with a pair of magnets and nubs on which is used for driving in gold fillings. It is supplied with a pair of magnets and nubs on the same principle as does the ordinary telegraph instrument. A little pointed packing instrument is worked backwards and forward by the electricity with lightning-like rapidly, making strokes too short to be seen by the eye and too fast to be counted. This instrument packs the gold and nubs it like a smith works the heated iron upon an anvil, making the blows rapidly and so evenly that it is scarcely felt by the person on whom it is used. It is too complicated to bear a description. It should be seen to be appreciated, and when in operation is a most interesting sight. The stream of electricity running through can be seen as it passes along with the brilliancy of a diamond's flash. The noise made by the machine is singularly like the blood-curdling rattle of a rattlesnake aroused and about to strike. Dr. Huntley was the first to introduce this machine in Atlanta, and says that no amount would induce him to discard it for the cumbersome methods heretofore used.

Dr. Huntley is a gentleman of education and skill He studied his profession in the best schools of Europe, spending a while at Caring-cross hospital, London, and the Vienna Military and Surgical institute. He graduated at the University of Pennsylvania, in 1880, and came to Atlanta in November last, since which time he has been more than successful in his profession. The work which he has done here speaks well for his skiil. In supplying false teeth he rarely, if ever, uses a plate, prefering to unite them with the natural teeth in away which is most pleasing in its results, and which renders it almost impossible, even after an examination, to discover the false from the natural teeth. He has just completed such an operation on a tooth for Mr. John Gramling, which is highly successful. He will soon have an immense practice, for his work speaks for itself.

Southern Medical College Commencement. Southern Medical College Commencement.
The commencement of the Southern Medical college will take place at DeGive's opera house on the evening of the 1st. The address will be made by Dr. A. J. Battle. president of Mercer university. The occasion will be a most interesting one.

The Last of the Exposition

Yesterday Mr. A. R. Bailey, the last of Mr. Kimball's corps of clerks, ceased his connection with the exposition, and to-day or to-morrow will leave for New York, where he will engage in business. This leaves General Lewis in possession of the field. Very little remains to be done before the exposition's affairs will be closed up.

There is one good thing for Atlanta and the good people of the commonwealth, and that is the fact that the late fire on Whitehall did not get in among Motes's fine barness. It would have been a cold day for Georgia if all the fine saddles, harness, etc., kept at 96 Whitehall street had been burned, Yesterday a company of gentlemen were discussing the late fire, when one of them said:

"Now tell me this: John H. James bought the three hundred dollar set of harness from Motes which took the grand gold medal at the exposition. You know he left it at the store to be kept on exhibition for awhile. Suppose that hartiess had been burned, who would have sustained the loss?"

"I don't know," said one, "but I can say this much: If that harness had been burned Motes would have made another set just like it. He can make that sort of harness every day in the week and throw in Funday for good measure. Motes is on deck every time, and don't you allow your memory to wander away from that fact."

A New Firm.

Messrs, J. B. Kiser and J. D. Frazier have formed a copartnership under the firm name and style of Kiser & Frazier. They will do a wholesale and retail dry goods business at the old stand of M. P. Kiser & Son at 77 Whitehall street and 88 Broad street. Mr. J. B. Kiser was a member of the firm of M. P. Kiser & Son, and is a young business man of great promise. Mr. Frazier is well known as one of the leading Whitehall street grocers. He has an extensive acquaintance and many friends. The two members of the firm make a strong team and their success cannot be doubted. They start business together with flattering prospects and a long life of business prosperish whats them. They will handle only the very best goods and at prices that will certainly not drive away custom. A New Firm.

Fine Goods.

Messrs. J. P. Stevens & Co. have received more new goods within the past week than were ever brought south by any other firm in the same length of time. Their salesroom fairly glitters with brilliant pieces of jewelry. The heavy pieces of silverware are of the latest and most beautiful designs, while in bracelets, rings and other pieces of jewelry a line is displayed which commands the admiration of every one. That man is indeed unfortunate who makes a purchase without first seeing Stevens's stock.

John Keely.

The "indefatigable." again comes to the front with an announcement that he has just opened an immense shipment of the latest novetites of the season. He has received during the past week some forty or fifty cases from New York containing some of the latest spring goods, including silks, satins, ribbons, corsets, ladies underwear, hoisery, etc. These goods have all been carefully selected, and bargains may be expected this week. Read the captain's numerous advertisements and give him a call.

There is no place in Atlanta where you find more elegant Furniture than at No. ! Broad street, and at prices so very, very far below the regular furniture houses, that we would certainly advise parties to examine be-fore purchasing. feb26—tf mid2dcol 8p

Humpty Dumpty.

George H. Adams, with his excellent company, closed his engagement at DeGive's opera house last night. As we said yes'erday, it is the best Humpty Dumpty we have seen at the south, and Adams is the best clown in the United States. His performances can be enjoyed by ladies, gentlemen and children, for they are entertaining and amusing, with no objectionable feature. Adams is worthy of recommendation, so too Horn, the magician; Gabrielle, on the chrystals; the Tissot's antomators; the Leslies, gymmasts; Denis, the ventriloquist; the Martinettes in statuesque gymnastic poses; Wingfield with his dogs, and the Pragers in their famous "cat duet." their famous "cat duet."

DIRECTOR ALPHAND, of the Paris city works s in special request among the European cities, his areer in Paris having given him a wide and excel-ent reputation. Some months ago the Empero lent reputation. Some months ago the Emperor Francis Joseph, of Austria, desired him tog ot Vienna and take charge of certain works in hand in that city, but he declined to do so Now it is said that he has received an invitation from the Russian exart to go to St. Petersburg and superintend some improvements at the Winter Palace. This, also, he has declined.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. P. V. Dykes left the city for Gainesville yes terday.

Judge Boorman, of Louisiana, who is to preside in the United States courts in the absence of Judge Erskine, who is unable to preside on account of ill health, will be here on the first Monday to open the district court The circuit court will be opened on the second Monday.

Mrs. M. Morris, the popular and enterprising milliner, leaves to-morrow for the north via the Pledmont Air-Line. She will be gone about two weeks, during which time she will purchase everything new and novel in her line.

Colonel W. E. Barrows, of Willimantic, accompanied by Mrs. Barrows, spent a few days in Atlanta last week. Colonel Barrows is one of the wisest and most progressive men that was interested in the south through the late exposition, and his interest in the south will be increased rather than diminished. He has just returned from a trip through Carolina and Florida. His hosts of friends in Atlanta were glad to see him once more.

CHIN PLIN'S OPIUM DEN.

THE SPREAD OF CHINESE VICES IN NEW YORK.

A Visit to a Chinaman's Joint, and What a Reports
Saw There—Two Opium Places Patronised Exclusively by Well-Dressed Men and Women—Progress of the Vice, Etc.

New York Star.

Opium smoking is a vice that is gradually obtaining a foothold in this city, and although it has been known to exist in New York for the past four or five years, yet but few people have any idea of the extent of the practice. At first it was confined to the Chinese laundrymen living in this city, but it has spread so rapidly that now there are from ten to fifteen opium-smoking dens. Of these two are patronized almost exclusively by Caucasiansone at No. 48 First street, known to the initiated as Chin Plin's "joint," and another in West Thirty-second street, next to Jerry Mc-Auley's mission, which is kept by Hughes, the former proprietor of the Cremorne.

Chin Plin's den was visited by a Star reporter in the early part of last week. It occupies a small basement store under a densely populated tenement house, and adjoins Justice Schwab's socialistic headquarters. Packages of tea and boxes of cigars filled the showwindow and screened the interior from observation. Entering the dingy place the reporter found a woman seated at a corner, behind which were more packages and bundles that contained ostensibly tea and other commodities, which served as a disguise to the true character of the place. A wooden partition separated the store from an apartment in the rear, from which faint voices could now and then be heard,

A Chinaman who had become Americaniz ed sufficiently to wear the clothing of civilization and to speak tolerably fair English, came out of the back room and inquired of the woman who, it afterward appeared, was his wife, what the reporter wanted. "To see the place," was the writer's answer, accompanied by a trade dollar. For a moment the almond eyes of the Chinaman glanced suspiciously at the reporter and then at the silver, but the silver overcame his suspicions, and he said, "Come long." The mysterious room was entered, and for the first time the reporter obtained a view of an opium den. The wooden platforms covered with mats, were on each side forms, covered with mats, were on each side of the room, and near them burned little oil lamps. On these mats two women and three men were reclining, overcome by the effects of the drug, and staring with glassy eyes at the intruder. They appeared in a lethargy from which nothing apparently could sir them. The two women were well dressedbut flashy looking. The men were also levely flashy looking. The men were also loudly dressed, and looked like Bowery gamblers or sports who live by their wits. Large bowled pipes with a small orifice and a reed stem lay at the opium smokers' sides.

"Another pipe, Plin," said one of the smokers languidly.

Taking a small piece of opium Plin leaned over one of the oil-lamps and began twirling the opium around in the heat of the flame The poison melted very rich yellow strings and this was dropped from the end of the long needle on which Plin held it into the bowl of the nine in the shape of a pill. Then it was the pipe, in the shape of a pill. Then it was flattened out by the needle and the smoker held it with the bowl reversed over the lamp, taking a few short puffs and then, relapsing back on the bed, seemed wrapped in an ecstacy.

The reporter left the room accompanied by Plin, whom he asked what kind of people patronized his place. Plin did not seem to understand the purport of the question, but his wire who was busy, attending to the wants of a youthful American-Chinese, answered and said: "Oh, lots of people. Ladies come here; nice ladies, too. They are regular customers and spend as much as $2^{\circ}_{2000} tomers and spend as much as $2 here at a time. Who they are I don't know; they come here; why do you want to know?" This shut off all further communication and

'Oh, yes; there's nice women go in there," said a German woman who keeps a little cigar store. "They smoke opium," she added with a whisper, "and it fills the house. But they've got to move, the landlord says." Last night the reporter visited the place, but Chin Plin's "joint" was closed and inside but Chin Plin's "joint" was closed and inside was darkness. "The Chinaman's gone," said one of the occupants of the tenement house. "He's moved to Houston street." After a diligent search through Houston street the re been formerly occupied as a laundry, where Chin Plin could be seen busily engaged in arranging his household goods through one of the dust-begrimed panes of the show window.

A half dozen mongrel children were playing around among the chatteis which littered up. around among the chatteis which littered up the place, and their mother was busily engaged in assisting her celestial liege lord. No attention was paid to the reporter's knock at the door, and ne was compelled to leave without the pleasure of another interview with Mr. Chin Plin. It was learned that Chin Plin intended to open ostensibly a tea store, but the partition which had been erected back of it, and the accessories of an opium-smoking den that could be plainly seen from the outside showed that his intentions were otherwise. around among the chattels which littered up seen from the outside showed that his intentions were otherwise.

Hughes' place on Thirty-second street is the most handsomely equipped of the opium "joints" in New York. This is patronized by women residing on Murray hill, as well as some who reside in neighboring brothels. In the afternoon the place is patronized exclusively by women, but at night it is filled by men and women alike. Many of the women have acquired the habit by coming with companions who were addicted to the vice to the den out of currosity, and smoking opium the den out of curiosity, and smoking opium "just to see what it tasted like."

A half-dozen visits confirmed the novice as an habitual smoker, and then the road to ruin was straight before them without a turning-out place, as the habit once acquired takes possession of every thought and idea of the opium smoker and renders her or him its Along Mott street are perhaps a dozen opium dens, patronized almost exclusively by Chinamen, but occasionally they admit lighter-skinned optum smokers into their "joints." Some well-dressed women can occasionally be seen entering these houses, over the doors o which are pasted strips of paper on which are inscribed in Chinese characters the name of the opium seller and his business. The police are at present powerless to stop this pernicious but rapidly growing habit, but a law which is before the assembly for action contemplates the punishment of any person who that keep an only den shall keep an opiun den.

HUMAN OSTRICHES.

Folk Who Feed on Pins, Needles and Jack-Knives,

There died not very long ago at Prestwitch asylum, in England, a medium in whose body were found 1.841 objects, to-wit: 20 buckles 14 pieces of glass, 10 pebbles, 3 knotted strings, a piece of leather, a fish-hook, a pin, 8 copper buttons and 1,782 nails and tacks. His mad buttons and 1,782 nails and tacks. His madness was of a common sort, after all. At the autopsy of a convict in the Brest galleys 52 objects were found in the stomach, including several knives and pieces of iron hoop four inches long. In March, 1808, a sailor named John Cummings died in Guy's hospital, London, whose experiences completely eclipsed the performances of the boy described by Messrs. Sawyer and Allen in "Pickwick" as addicted to wooden beads. In 1789 he had seen a French juggler "swallowing" knives by the dozen, and in his credulity believing that the juggler actually conveyed them into his stomach, he undertook to rival him and swallow four clasp-knives. Luckily, these did not kill him, and he was satisfied to rest on his laurels until March, 1805, when at Boston he was one day tempted, while drinking, to boast of and repeat his performance. In the course of that evening he swallowed six knives, and when next morning crowds of visitors came when next morning crowds of visitors came to see him he was induced to swallow eight more. He paid dearly for his frolic; for he was seized with constant vomiting and pain in the stomach, and though by heroic measures he was relieved of the knives that organ was irretrievably ruined. But all his suffering did not suffice to cure him of his folly for at Soithead in December 1. him of his folly, for at Spithead in December, 1805, being somewhat tipsy, he resumed his boastfulness of being able to swallow knives, and to amuse the ship's company swallowed nine clasp-knives, some of them of a large size. Again he became ill, and was in the hands of the ship's surgeon for several months, during which portions of knives were discovered. during which portions of knives were dis-charged. At length he was admitted as a patient at Guy's hospital, and in March, 1809, he died in a state of extreme emaciation.

A milder form of this disease is the fonda finder form of this disease is the fondness for pins and needles. Dr. Stephenson, of Detroit, reported in 1877 the case of a woman of seventy-five, whom ne had relieved of a pin swallowed forty-two years before while picking her teeth. Siloy has recorded the case of a woman who made pins and needles her daily diet, and from whose body 1.500 of these articles were taken after her 1,500 of these articles were taken after her death. Another case, almost as striking, said the London Lancet, about a year ago, has been recorded by Dr. Gillette (1874), that of a girl in whom, from time to time, needles were found beneath the skin, which they per-forated and were removed by the fingers or forceps. Concerning the way in which they got into her system no information could be extracted from her. She was carefully watch-ed by Dr. Lepaulmier, and in the course of ighteen months no less than three hundred and twenty needles were extracted, all being about the same size. The largest number which escaped in a single day was sixtyone. A curious phenomenon preceded the escape of each needle. For some hours the pain was severe, and there was considerable fever. She then felt a sharp pain, like lightning in the tissues, and on looking at the place at which this pain had been felt the head of the needle was generally found projecting. The needles invariably came. projecting. The needles invariably came out headforemost. No bleeding was occa-sioned, and not the least trace of inflam-mation followed. That little weight is to be mation followed. That fittle weight is to be attached to the place at which the needles escape as proof of their mode of introduction is evident from a case recorded by Villars of the girl who swallowed a large number of pins and needles, and two years afterwards, during a period of nine months, 200 passed out of the hand, arm, axilla, side of thorax, abdomen and thigh, all on the left side. The pins curiously escaped the left side. The pins, curiously, escaped more readily and with less pain than the needles. Many years ago a case was recorded by Dr. Otto, of Copenhagen, in which 495 needles passed through the skin of a hysterical girl, who had probably swallowed them during a hysterical paroxysm; but these all during a hysterical paroxysm; but these all emerged in regions below the level of the diaphram and were collected in groups, which gave rise to inflammatory swellings of some size. One of these contained 100 needles. In 1878 Dr. Bigger described before the Society of surgery of Dublin a case in which more than 300 needles were removed from the body of a woman who died in consequence of their presence. It is very remarkable in how few cases the needles were the cause of death, and how slight an interference with function heir presence and movement cause. M. Henry de Parville, the well-known French writer on science, has described many cases of this sort, not a few of them of sane persons. M. Berenger-Feraud took a needle from the arm of a woman of twenty-four who did not recol-lect swallowing it, and had for weeks been unable to understand why she felt a pricking ensation whenever she rested her arm on the table. Another case is that of a girl of six teen who was dying from gastritis, it was thought, till examination revealed the presence of a needle, swallowed by accident, she knew not when. What became of the rash youth of Bologna who, to show how a juggler swallowed a sword, introduced a silver fork into his throat and let it slip down, we do not know. He probably "went to meet" the swallowers of talse teeth. Brunel, the great engineer, had a narrow escape once upon a time, when amusing some children by causing a half-sovereign to vanish from his mouth and reappear in his ear, the coin suddenly slipped down his gullet. He tried to cough it up without effect. There it stuck. Every surgical device was tried to get hold of it without effect. It became evident that if the coin could not be disadged fatal results would could not be disadged fatal results would long and an inch in width, which she had swallowed. Four years ago they were less fortunate in the case of a boy who had swal-lowed a piece of brass chain, and in 1880 a child in Devonshire was vainly treated who had allowed a small tin whistle to slip from the mouth into the trachea. Since the intro-duction of the balloon whistles there have duction of the balloon whistles there have been several fatal accidents from—by inhal ing instead of expelling the breath to fill the balloon—swallowing the whistle and Indiarubber sack attached to it, about the ugliest thing imaginable to deal with, since the toy sticks in the wind-pipe, and every attempt to breathe tends to inflate the balloon, and so the sufferer is choked as promptly and inexorably as if he were in the grasp of a garotte. The moral of all which is that people should be careful about putting solid substances in their mouths.

BEHOLD, THE JUDGE STANDETH AT THE DOOR."

How dreadful is this place,
As Thou wert far away.
I slept in this my day,
Nor would Thy grace.
I wake and find that Thou art here,
And my soul melts me for fear,
Lord, of Thy face.

Thou judge of quick and dead, Now hast Thou found my soul; O'er me Thy thunders roll, Me sore bestead. how shall I Thy glance abide, o place is found where I may hide My guilty head.

Low Jesu, dread, yet dear,
Thy faded eyes are sweet;
Low at Thy pierced feet
I sink for fear.
suffering Soan of God most high,
I must perish, let me lie
And perish here.

Lord Christ, I have no plea,
Thou knowest my guilt is great;
Pity my lost estate,
My misery see.
solve, O Lord, my sinful soul;
me can forgive and make me whole,
Jesu, but Thee.

BREWER'S LUNG RESTORER.

Below we make a few remarks on

BREWER'S LUNG RESTORER

and as we know they are facts we ask all interested to read them carefully

THESE ARE THE REMARKS

THESE ARE FACTS

Not long since certain parties in Macon, who had a married daughter living in an adjoining county, received a letter from "physician saying that their daughter was nearly gone with Consumption, the right Lung entirely gone and the left somewhat afficted, and urged them to come to see her at once as she was liable to die at any momet. Before starting they bought three bottles of having heard it highly spoken of. Whey they saw her they were perfectly shocked at her condition; she had fallen away to skin an; bones, and could not sleep or rost in any position. They told the doc or they wanter to give her the Lung Rectorer which he readily consented to, as he had tried everything he could think of. They ave it to be ano she becam to improve after the fourth does and continued to do so until she is now pronounced.

CURED.

These were desperate rases and we believe that hese two partie alone will be the means of our elling thousands of bottles of BREWER'S LUNG ESTORER, as they take every opportunity of etting others know of its wonderful effects.

Brewer's Lung Restorer. It Will Cure Your Cough.

One bottle of Brewer's Lung Restorer cured me of Bronehitis in a week's time. I intend keeping it in my house all the time, as I consider it a valuable medicine.

Yours respectfully,
HENRY G. DAVIS.

IT NEVER FAILS. Convincing Evidence.

This is to certify that I had Asthma for thirty-fiv years and used a great many different kinds of medicine. Was treated five years without finding relief. I then used your Lung Kestorer and sound in it a permanent cure. Very truly yours. Z. J. PARKS.

ASTHMA CURED Troubled for a Long Time.

I had been troubled for a long time, before using Brewer's Lung Restorer, with something like Asthma, and after using only two bottles of your medicine I breathed perfectly free and have feltoo symptom of the disease since. I am confident your medicine cured me, and I cheerfully recommend it to all who are suffering with Asthma.

Yours truly, JOHN D. ROSS.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

Messrs. Lamar, Rankin & Lamar—Gentlemen: You will remember my going '2 you some time since and getting two bottles of Brewer's Lung Restorer for a friend who was down in the bed, hardly able to move, and I promised to let you know its effects. I will say that this gentleman who used it was up in a week's time and looked two hundred per cent better than he had in months, and I hope will be entirely cured of the disease.

Yours respectfully,

F. T. ABLE.

RRONCHITIS CURED.

Messrs. Lamar, Rankin & Lamar--Gentlemen: My little girl 8 years old, has been for some time troubled with a severe cough, which physicians pronounced bronchitis. She slept out little, cough-ing the entire night, and we had to get up very ng the entire night, and we had to get up very fiten to help her out, the cough was so severe. At our solicitation I bought a bottle of Brewer's Lung testorer, and she began to improve a tonce and has een sleeping nicely ever since, and I firmly believe he will be permanently cured. I was vesy much rightened at her condition not long since, but am ow rejoicing at her rapid recovery.

Yours truly,

GED. F. WING.

HEMORRHAGES STOPPED.

It gives me great pleasure to certify to the merits of Brewer's Lung Restorer, as I have used it and found it all you represented it to be. My lungs were affected to some extent, and I had a hacking cough, often spitting up blood, which at times would amount to a hemorrhage, and I became very much frightened at my condition. I bought several bottles of the Brewer's Lung Restorer, and have been entirely cured by its use, and feel satisfied that it is permanent, as I've had no symptoms of the disease since. I am satisfied that this medicine will prove a great blessing to the people. If you would introduce it into the northern states it would make your fortunes. Yours truly.

BREWER'S LUNG RESTORER.

Having suffered greatly for about three years from severe throat and lung affection, I was advised by Mrs. Professor Dozier to try Brewer's Lung Restorer. Not having any faith in patent medicines I was reluctant to give it a trial, but finally yielding to persuasion I purchased half-dozen bottles, and after a fair trial I take pleasure in declaring that I have been wonderfully benefited, and pronounce "Brewer's Lung Restorer" a blessing to those afficted with throat and lung affections. For months during my affliction I was unable to lie down to rest: my breathing was so difficult that a constant wheezing noise could be heard across the room, and my friends were concerned for my life. All the sleep obtained during this time, (necessarily broken and unsatusfactory), was in a sitting posture, but now I can recline with ease, and my repose is natural and pleasant.

MISS KATE E. DOZIER, Talbotton, Ga. Messrs. Lamar, Rankin & Lamar—Gents: Will repose is natural and pleasant.

MISS KATE E. DOZIER, Talbotton, Ga.

Messrs. Lamar, Rankin & Lamar—Gents: Will you allow me to tell you something in regard to your Brewer's Lung Restorer? The lot you shipped me some time ago has been on my shelf since their arrival, until a few days ago, when the following circumstances occurred:

Mrs. James Coleman, while n a visit to her mother, Mrs. Conner, was taken by ill and thought she would die with a case of bonchitis and consumption of long standing. There was no physician to be had, the nearest points being Dublin and Mt. Vernon, both about twenty miles distant. They sent over to the store for something that would give relief, I gave them a bottle of Brewer's Lung Restorer and told them that if it did no good they need not pay for it. The result was that in fity-six hours she was able to go home, about twenty-one miles; and I have sold several bottles to-day to parties who know of this circumstance. Mr. A. H. McCremmon bought a bottle and found almost instant relief. The sale of your medicine is assured in this section as I shall hereafter warrant it to cure.

Yours truly.

How They Have Reduced the Art of Go

London Telegraph.

The reader may be surprised to learn that It is not in all cases that bona fide cripples, and those who are unmistakably afflicted and who implore charity, are really entitled to commiseration and relief. It is quite within the verge of possibility that they have rendered themselves objects of compassion deliberately and with a purpose. At a notorious common lodging-house in the neighborhood of Drury lane the manager pointed out to me two suct characters. The one was a wretched looking woman of past middle age, who was very poorly though tidily dressed, and who, while I was talking with the man in the passage, passed through, carrying in her hand a nice piece of rump steak and a small cauliflower. That's how she does it," said Mr. Manager, as the ration and relief. It is quite within rump steak and a small cauliflower. 'That's how she does it," said Mr. Manager, as the woman, who was too weak to walk well, held on to the balusters with her disengaged hand while she descended the steps that led down into the cellar; "that and a pint of stout will make her a decent dinner. She can afford it, and if she couldn't she would be dead in a On my requesting an explanation of this enigmatical speech, the manager con-tinued: "I can't give you all the particulars, because what she doses herself with is a secret. But dose herself she does. She remains in doors till after the gas is lit, and an hour or so before she starts she takes her dose, whatever it is, and it makes her that horrible ill that 'pon my soul it's a wonder how she finds pluck to continue at the game. Her face grows ghastly and pinched, and she grows black under the eyes, and she's so weak that there's no gammon about her hand shaking as she leans on her stick. She toddles out every evening, and you may find her afterward standing just off the pavement with a paper pinned to her breast, on which is written 'I am very ill and in deep distress.' She doesn't say a word, I am told, or even hold out her hand. She hasn't any need to. l've known her to go out of here at six o'clock, and she's been going it so the night before that she's fairly stumped, and been glad to borrow two pence-ha' penny of me for a half-quartern of gin to start her. Well, sir, I've known her to go out at six and be home before tea with a matter of eight or nine shillings, all in coppers. Does the stuff she takes do her any harm? It makes her thin, and she has such pains inside her that sometimes all the drink she can swallow don't make times all the drink she can swantow don't make her forget 'em. But it is an out-and-out game while it lasts, and plenty of 'em that lodge here would give her something handsome if she would put 'em up to what her 'dose' is. Do I think they would? I'm sure of it. Why, take notice of that chap out there in the yard washing his shirt. You see his arm?"

1 looked at the individual indicated, whose broom crossed his natively shoulders and I say while the corresponding limb was well nour-ished and plump. "There is no pretence there," I remarked; "the poor fellow has a withered arm?" Mr. Manager grinned. "I don't say he's a liar," said he, "out he brags that he did it on purpose that he might have the advantage of being a cripple. He's been a Soldier, and what he says is—between triends soldier, and what he says is—between friends and in confidence, you know—that wanting to get out of the service, and not caring to work for a living, he gave himself a bang on joker stealing behind. Arriving at the door, the elbow with a hammer. It passed as an accident, he had a few months in the infirmary, and came out of the army with allowe of sixpence a day for eighteen months, and his arm has been gradually wasting to what you see it now. Does he show it to excite compassion? Rather. He can use it a bit, and he plays on the fiddle with it about the streets, showing it all bare up to the shoulder. But he doesn't make very much. Not more than four or four-andsixpence a day." "But that is much more than the average hard-working laborer earns," "But that is much more I remarked "The hard-working laborer," re-turned Mr. Manager, with undisguised con-tempt; "I'll find you dozens of fellows about braces crossed his naked shoulders, and I saw at once that his right arm was frightfully attenuated-seemingly mere skin and bone, tempt; "I'll find you dezens of fellows about here who haven't got the advantage of being crippled who'd be sorry to earn as little as a hard working laborer." And there is no doubt that there might be found scores of men and women, disabled and helpless, who make such an excellent living by displaying their infirmities that they would decidedly decline to be made sound, were such a miran speak positively as regards blind men who are street beggars. Finding them in wretched homes, with a drunken wife and asylum where, for the remainder of their lives, they would have been well fed and lodged and taught a trade as well. But in at least three instances they declined to avail themselves of the opportunity. Two of them excused themseves on the plea that they excused themseves on the plea that they and so the long day passed away, and they could not hear to live among strangers; but the third bluntly told me that though he was blind he was not exactly a fool, and it wasn't very likely that he was going to be caged up for the sake of his food and a bed, when he could "make" seven shillings in a short day by going about with his dog, and enjoy his pipe and his glass every evening.

TROUBLES OF A PREACHER'S LIFE

Mr. Beecher Declares that it is Not at all a Bed New York Star, February 13.

Having disposed of a host of announcements yesterday morning, Rev. Henry Ward Beecher chose for the subject of his sermon, "The Difficulties of Preachers." "There is so much said about preachers that perhaps it is worth while," said he, "for a preacher him-self to say something about them. It looks an easy life as you see it on the surface, but it is not so easy. You can take the man who toils hard day in and day out in a colliery, and maybe mourn his lot. He looks at the minister, who is dressed in broadcloth, and whose only apparent duty is to preach for half an our every Sunday, and live a luxurious life, and says: 'I'd like to be a minister myself, then I would know nothing of either work or trouble, have an easy life and go around visiting my friends.' To all those I say that the life of a preacher is not all ease and comfort, and it certainly is not all laziness. They charge that preaching is purely a mechanical art, and has no influence upon the nerves of the preacher. Let me refer such sceptics to the lives of Drs. easy life as you see it on the surface, but it is Let me refer such sceptics to the lives of Drs. Bushnell, Manning and Robertson, of Eng land. In delivering their renowned sermons to vast audiences, it seemed to be to them ar easy matter. But was it so? It was not for the continuous labor knocked them down time after time from sheer hard thinking and deep research. Brain work is much harder than muscular effects.

"Then take into consideration the other duties of a preacher. Week by week he must subject himself to self-denial, and very frequently he is compelled to make a continu-ous round of his parishioners where he sees nothing but want and misery, and yet, perafter all his endeavors to bring o fort, the old, old verdict is the result—Oh, he's no good. I went'to hear him once, but if you paid me I would not go again, for he is like the wheels of a cart that have not been greased—there is no music in him.' [Laugh-

"There is a sort of straightlaced preaching, though, which is called sound preaching. So it is, but it is all sound and nothing else, flaughterf for such preachers go round the whole system and get there once a year, and turn around and go over the same ground again like stitching a new collar or an old garment. These men say they hear a call, but is the old Methodist minister would say, 'I don't hear it, but if there was a call, I believe it was somebody else God called."

The work of a Christian minister is to be upright, honorabie, noble, and yet meek between the most weight was crushed. Thus in our blindness do we sak of fate the gifts that, come bectowed, may crush us with their way. There is a sort of straightlaced preaching determine what is true, and he it is who mus be the best judge of what is good for his peo-ple and preach that doctrine One of the no-blest of the callings of God is that of the ministry, and, as I said in the beginning, it is by no means an easy life, as many have at-tested who, after long years of trial, have failed in their calling.

A CHANGE OF BRIDES.

Showing the Importance of Turning on the Gas.

One summer evening just as the sun was setting behind the Rip-raps, and making a golden pathway across the limpid waters, the steamer Accomack, plying between the local wharves of the James river and Old Point, set on snore four persons, or to speak to the card, on shore four persons, or to speak to the card, two couples, and just married, as any one could see with half an eye. Blushes and clinging helplessness, so to speak, on the woman's part, and great nervousness, added to a self-protecting air, on the man's side, and an appearance, badly acted, of indifference in both, told the tale.

The genial Phœbus appears on the scene. He takes in the situation at a glance and he walks, or rather rolls up to the quartette.

"Walk up to my hotel, gentlemen and hotel, gentlemen and

"Walk up to my hotel, gentlemen and ladies. My name's Phoebus, and I'm owner here. What might yours be?" One murmurs Jones, the other Smith, and then, both stuttering, present Mrs. J. and Mrs. S.

"Just married, I see," said the genial proprietor. "Walk right up, and I'll give you the best rooms in the house. I like bridal couples, I do; reminds me of the time when me an my old woman did the tender racket and cleaned our teeth with the same tooth

After waiting in the reception-room half an hour, the two couples were shown their respective rooms, they being marked on the register as 100 and 101, and were side by side. After supper they journeyed to the ball-room, and sat listening to the music. Then the and sat listening to the music. Then the brides got fidgety and disappeared to their rooms. One was a short, sprightly brunette, all fire and sparkle, and as plump as a partridge; the other a tall, Juno-limbed blonde, with complexion of cream and rose, sleepy, senuous—just such a type rs Rubens loved to paint. The grooms were alike in stature; both had beardless faces with an adolescent musical status of the status of had beardless faces, with an adolescent mus-tache growing, and it is needless to add that they were from the country, and taking their first dip into fashionable life.

After the departure of their wives, the two incipient fathers, all unkown to each other, and too much engrossed in their own blissful thoughts to notice other people, passed an hour or two in looking on the billiard-players, and varying the monotony by going up to the bar every five minutes and taking a drink.

Now, it happened that a gentleman, I dare not mention us name, had watched the whole proceedings with an amused and observant eye, and, having looked at the register, a most inful and thoughtless idea came in his head. Gazing around cautiously he saw that the clerk's attention was engaged elsewhere, so he

By and by, Mr. Jones, getting tired of lounging around, went to the book to see the number of his room; it read 101, and he goes along the dimly-lighted passage, with the he scanned the number to see if he was right, and then walked boldly in, for the door was unlocked, and the skylight showed that the room was wrapped in cimmerian darkness. Mr. Jones now being comfortable installed in Mrs. Smith's room, it was not ten minutes after that Mr. Smith, the husband of the plump brunette, having also looked at the register, came timidly and expectantly stealing, like a shadow, down the half-lighted aisle, counting for the magic number. Arriving at No. 100, he walked into the chamber where the grand-looking blonde lay, and the

An hour at least passed, and our joker waited in vain for some sign. All was silent and dark, and so he turned in himself, but not to sleep. Imagination played strange freaks, and the earliest dawn found him still wandering. Getting up he resumed his watch, and just as the lamps were beginning to pale Mr. Jones, looking like Tarquin, emerged from the room and disappeared. Mr. Smith, by a coincidence, followed suit.

At breakfast time both brides appeared and were joined by their liege lords. One thing was evident to the joker, the brides had not found out the trick; t eir freedom from a burning embarrassment, during the day, I have interested in their favor those who, had they been willing, would at once have placed them in a comfortable asylum where, for the remainder of their lives they would be asylum where, for the remainder of their lives they would be a sylum where, for the remainder of their lives they would be a sylum where, for the remainder of their lives they would be a sylum where, for the remainder of their lives they would be a sylum where the sylum where the sylum where the sylum was a sylum was a sylum where the sylum was a s ting by themselves in a brown study. Every now and then they would laugh silendy until the tears would run down their cheeks, and > took the steamer to New York.

> Now, what was the upshot of all this the joker never knew, but remorse tortured his soul. He took to drinking; then, falling steadily downward, he became a politician, until, reaching the very depths of the pit, an indignant public sentenced him to pay penance, and he is now serving out a term in the Virgina logislature, and he payer gets a letter Virginia legislature, and he never gets a letter but what in derision an "Hon." is put before the gas.-Washington Capital. Considerable interest has been aroused in Austrian medical circles by the appearance in the drug market of a new narcotic from Queensland, thus far only known by its singular native name of "pitchery-bilgery." It is made from the pink and white blossoms of a stunted shrub indigenous to nothern Aus-tralia, and is prepared for use by the simple process of compressing these flowers into a compact cake. Taken in minute doses it is a stimulant, in larger doses a sedative, and it considerable quantities an anæsthetic. Bu its reputation chiefly arises from the suppo sition that it possesses the peculiar property of enabling those who habitually consume it to withstand fatigue and undergo great physical exertion upon a low diet. These state-ments are made by a medical journal of the Austrian capital, the Apatheker Zeitung, which probably does not mean to guarante

COTTON BUTTER OIL

Tested by several hundred of the most pruden and careful housekeepers in Georgia, who unani mously monounce it

EQUAL, IF NOT SUPERIOR TO LARD,

WE NOW OFFER IT TO DEALERS on terms that will enable them to supply their cus-tomers at prices below the cost of lard. It costs less per pound, and two pounds of it are equal to three pounds of lard. It is a REFINED COTTON SEED OIL. Made by the Hope Oil Mills of Memphis, Tenn. The high character of the gentlemen controling these mills is a guarantee that none but the purest and sweetest oils made from selected seed will be used for this purpose. It is cleaner, better and cheaper than lard for combread, biscuits and all frying purposes. It is as good as butter for cales and eastry. It is as frying purposes. It and pastry. It is as

WHOLESOME AND DELICATE AS OLIVE OIL,

It does not become Stale or Rancid as soon as either butter or lard. It is a Home Product, and every citizen of the Cotton States should be interested in its introduction into general use, thereby enhancing the value of the two hundred million bushels of cotton seed annually taken from our crop.

WE MAKE NO AGENTS! ASK YOUR GROCER FOR IT.
